IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Oct. 20, 1892.

There is an area of low pressure of slight energy central this morning in the southwest, which has caused local showers as far as St. Louis. It is not probable that this storm will cause the weather to change in this section of the country.

The area of high pressure is still central over the extreme west. During the past 24 hours rains have fallen over portions of New York, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas; in all other states the weather has remained fair. Showers will occur over the southwest to-day, elsewhere it will remain fair.

The temperature has fallen over the lake region, Ohio valley and the northeastern portion of the country; in all other sections it has risen. The temperature will rise slowly over the entire country during the next 36 hours.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity on Thursday, fair and cool. On Friday, fair and warmer.

City of Chicago in the Hands of Friends.

Thousands of People Fill the Streets

And Gaze Admiringly on the Beauties.

The Civic Parade Moves Without a Hitch.

Everything in Readiness for the Grand Demonstration and Dedication To Be Held on Friday.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—The end crowns the work.

Months of unceasing and never-relaxed activity, of perpetual vigilance, of unremitting toil, culminate to-day in the exercises preliminary to the dedication of the great White City by the gray waters of Lake Michigan.

A magic city of palaces sprung from a sandy waste, its walls and columns reflecting back the morning light as from a polished mirror; its domes, spires, minarets, piercing the very clouds; its banners and pennants snapping in the lake wind; a city upon whose like no man ever gazed before; a city sprung up within a twelvemonth, yet wearing the semblance of ancient Athens, so firm and solid appearing are its mighty towers and buttresses.

A city illustrative of the highest development of American energy and commemorative of the discoverer of the new and greater world—such is the aggregation of mighty structures in which will be held the world's Columbian exposition.

To assist in their dedication, in their consecration to the vast, far-reaching end, for which they are designed, there have gathered here the representatives of the highest worth and intellect of the nation; the rulers and governors, chosen from among themselves by a free and enlightened people; the representatives of foreign powers, to whom, indeed, the enterprise is as important and interesting as to the American people themselves; the citizen soldiery of many states, the representatives, to the number of thousands, of many civic and trades organizations, and finally—highest and best of all sponsors for such an undertaking—the sovereign people themselves, the bone and sinew of the land, the real proprietors of the whole enterprise.

From farm and hillside, from workbench and mill, they have assembled to witness the inauguration of what they deem the crowning achievement of their existence as an independent nation. The people are supreme.

When the multitudes began pouring into the down town districts this morning to view the great civic parade, they saw, stretching away in every direction, streets aglow with decorations, till they looked like a gigantic flower garden in full bloom. The national colors predominated, but with the red, white and blue were mingled the flags of all nations, and here and there a streak of terra cotta, Chicago's newly chosen municipal color, formed a dark background for the more vivid hues of the other decorations.

The work of decorating has been in progress for several days, but it was not until late last night that the workmen on the sky-scrapers along Dearborn street, and on the big State street retail stores put the finishing touches to their work, and left the fronts of the buildings shimmering with vari-colored bunting.

The designs of the decorations were as many in number as the designers themselves, but, as in most matters, the simplest designs generally produced the most striking effect. Great swaths of bunting sweeping from the cornice transversely across the front of a building to the ground floor, and crossed and re-crossed at intervals by bands of red, white and blue, formed a favorite and striking device.

Another design was the arrangement of a sheaf of flags, with the yellow and red Spanish standard in the center, in every window. Portraits of Columbus, La Salle and Pere Marquette were also plentifully utilized, and a monster representation of the landing of Columbus formed the center of the decorations on a Madison street sky-scraper.

On the lake front, where the parade formed, the line of magnificent buildings from Adams street to Congress is ablaze with many hued bunting. Perhaps the most striking feature is the double electric arch spanning Michigan avenue and Congress street at the auditorium. Four masts rising from monumental bases and carrying huge, gilded globes are connected by lines of tinted electric lights. Flags, banners and festoons make the arch beautiful by day and the thousand glowing bulbs flashing forth prismatic rays give it added charm at night. The auditorium itself blazes with color. Around the entire building at the tenth floor is a broad band of yellow. From the cornice flutter the flags of all nations, and along the second floor are long rows of shields bearing the names of the states of the union and encircled by small flags and wreaths.

Adjoining it, the Studebaker building rivals its big neighbor. The national colors cover the arches and wind around the pillars. The colors of Spain, Italy and America are entwined and portraits of Columbus and Washington are embowered in bunting. The Victoria, the Richelieu and the Leland hotels are resplendent with tastefully arranged flags, and the great Pullman building is a mass of red, white and blue.

Going one block further west, Wabash avenue has on holiday attire. From the river as far as the eye can reach toward the south, the broad thoroughfare shows a mass of fluttering flags, quivering streamers and kaleidoscopic colors. But it is on State street that the taste and ingenuity of the decorator has had full swing, and the mammoth department stores and mercantile establishments have vied with one another in the profusion and completeness of their decorations.

On Marshall Field's building coats of arms of all nations appear directly beneath the cornice, and festoons of color swing along the walls. Colors shape themselves into festoon and shield, and portraits of Columbus and American statesmen look out from their midst.

Mandel Bros. have covered their establishment with red, white and blue. Above the entrance gleams a painted representation of the caravel Santa Maria, and above it are looped and woven colors in fanciful forms. Schlesinger & Mayer show a huge globe over the entrance, backed by a mass of terra cotta, over which the Spanish, Italian and American colors rise in graceful festoons.

All along State street the facades of the massive structures show like a profusion of adornment, and the same may be said of Dearborn and Clark streets and the other highways running north and south, while on the streets beginning at the lake and running westward the decorations are no less profuse.

The theaters, clubs and hotels have all blossomed forth into prismatic splendor and the stores and dwellings, even to the very outskirts of the city, have at least some form of decoration in honor of the great Geneseo admiral.

The city hall decorations, which is was expected would be a triumph of art, have not, it must be confessed, come up to expectation. Possibly the building is too large for a display of this character, but at all events the terra cotta swathings of the marble pillars have not produced the striking effect anticipated, and the other decorations of the building are neither profuse nor artistic. But this is fortunately one of the few exceptions to the general rule of good taste, effectiveness and profusion which has governed the decorations, and Chicago may properly pride herself on the completeness of the display, which has never, in this city at lest, been approached before.

UP WITH THE LARK.

All Chicago Was on Hand at Daylight to See the Sights.

All Chicago was up with the lark this morning. In fact tens of thousands of people were bestirring themselves ahead of the feathered songsters, if any of the latter have braved the raw mornings and chilly nights to claim their share in the festivities of to-day.

On the sidewalks along the line of the parade not only men, but fragile women, girls in short skirts and boys in knickerbockers began to secure positions of vantage almost with the first indications of the break of day.

The early risers were wise in their day and generation, although their wisdom involved a tedious wait of something like six hours; for the route of the parade was less than three miles in length and the head of the column got back to the starting place and disbanded long before the center had begun to move.

The extraordinary shortness of the route and which had been selected by Gen. Miles in the face of the most emphatic protests, naturally produced a congestion of the sight-seeing populace on the sidewalks and cross streets, and those who got into the center of the city, even two or three hours before the time fixed for the head of the column to move, found themselves barely able to get within sighting distance of the tops of the largest flagpoles carried by the processionists.

How the masses got into the parade district is a mystery. They seemed to sprout up like mushrooms out of the roadway, and from between the cracks of the pavement. The steam and street railroads brought their entire equipment into requisition, but even these facilities, ample enough at ordinary times, were painfully inadequate to meet the exigencies of the occasion, and thousands of people, tens of thousands in fact, were compelled to tramp it from the residence district and in some cases even from the distant suburbs.

Vehicular traffic was entirely prohibited in the business district after 10 o'clock, a fact which often tended toward making confusion worse confounded.

No free stands had been provided for the aged and infirm, as was done in New York last week, and as a matter of fact, the only stand on the entire route was located at the postoffice, and this was reserved for the more distinguished of the guests of the world's fair authorities.

The sightseers, therefore, were perforce compelled to stand and wait for many weary hours, and two-thirds of them got nothing for their patience beyond the grim satisfaction of being able to say that they had managed to get within hearing distance of the music.

Elaborate arrangements had been made by the police authorities to provide for every possible contingency. Nearly the entire force was massed in the business district. The parade streets were cleared of pedestrians at half past 9, and notice was served upon the spectators that they would have to confine themselves to the sidewalks. No one not supplied with a special permit signed by Chief McClaughrey could pass through the line.

A dozen hospital tents had been erected on vacant lots and alleys adjacent to the route, and special instructions were given to the police concerning the disposition of all injured persons.

Shortly before 11 o'clock those of the distinguished guests who were not desirous of figuring in the parade were escorted to the grand stand. These included Vice-President Morton, and the members of the cabinet, Chief Justice Fuller and his associates of the supreme court, ex-President Hayes, Cardinal Gibbons and party, Gen. Schofield and Admiral Belknap, the visiting members of the diplomatic corps, and the congressional and gubernatorial visitors. Cushions had been provided on the hard pine benches for the benefit of the reviewing party, although there was no overhead canopy or side stretches of canvass to break the force of the rather bleak wind that swept around the corner. The men, however, drew coat collars around their throats, the ladies brought their sealskins and wraps into requisition, and altogether there was little, if any, fault to find with the arrangements for the care and comfort of the city's guests.

It was within a few moments of 11 o'clock when the booming of cannon on the lake front gave notice that the head of the column was about to move.

For two hours before this the participating organizations and societies had been forming on the streets running west from Michigan avenue, and extending south from the auditorium for a distance of nearly two miles. The parade had been arranged in three grand divisions, each having a dozen or more sub-divisions.

Gen. Miles was grand marshal, and some twenty prominent citizens of Chicago, some of them millionaires, rendered him efficient service as official aides.

A detachment of mounted police, the very pick of the city's force, led the first grand division. They were a fine looking lot of peace preservers, and the applause that was started in their honor by a party of New Yorkers that occupied a balcony of the Auditorium hotel, was taken up by the crowd beneath and carried from block to block as rapidly as the boys in blue hove in sight.

Behind them came a company of their brother patrolmen on foot stepping out with military precision to the music of Sousa's band, the latter acting as special escort to the band of the Mexican republic.

Next in line was Grand Marshal Miles and his staff, but the appearance of the Indian fighter was not welcomed with half the enthusiasm evoked by the gayly uniformed Chicago hussars, who came along in column of platoons.

A long string of carriages, containing Mayor Washburne, the members of the board of aldermen and the city officials followed the hussars. After these and bringing up the rear of the first division were the visiting governors and the members of their staffs. Some were mounted, but the majority preferred the use of the vehicles that were placed at their disposal. There were people of all states in the solid mass of humanity that lined the sidewalks, the windows and roofs and balconies from the court to the finish, and as one governor after another was recognized he was accorded a noisy welcome.

Everybody knew McKinley. The democrats and republicans alike had a cheer and a waving of hats or handkerchiefs for the Little Napoleon, so that his passing was in the nature of a continuous ovation.

Right cordial, too, were the plaudits showered upon Gov. Flower of New York, Russell of Massachusetts, white-haired Horace Boies of Iowa, Pattison of Pennsylvania, ministerial looking Chase of Indiana, and fat, good-natured Peck of Wisconsin, who laughed and chuckled to himself as though he were cracking jokes in his cranium for his own special delectation.

Three hundred Indian lads from the Indian school at Carlisle Pa., under command of Capt. Platt, attired in neat gray uniforms, had the post of honor in the second grand division, and acted as escort to Gen. A. P. Hawley. In the first subdivision were the various local courts of the Ancient Order of Foresters, in full regalia, each court being preceded by its standard bearer. A half score of various Italian societies, social and benevolent, followed the Foresters.

In the third division were the lodges of the patriotic Sons of America, Order of the United American Mechanics, Orangemen, and the Patriotic Guard of America. Each organization had its band, and all of them were limited to patriotic airs, ta ra ra boom de aye, Annine Rooney, and other popular ditties of the same order being barred by order of the committee on arrangements.

The fourth division was made up of the local Turner societies and the German veterans, while in the fifth the Scottish organizations, the uniformed Sir Knights, Royal Scots, and the natives of the mother country who were identified with the order of the Sons of St. George, turned out several thousand strong.

Leading the Royal Scots was a band of tewenty-four pipers. They were costumed in the full royal Stuart plaid uniform. The Scots also were in Highland uniform, and they kept time very prettily with the music of their native land.

In the next two divisions the foreign speaking element had its innings. The Polish national alliance turned out 5,000 strong, some of the lodges bearing such patriotic names as Wtekinski, Kozierynski, Listewnik, Budzynski, and Liskourski.

Strosmajer lodge of the Crotian Benevolent society, followed the alliance led by a Slavonian band, and marshaled by a citizen with the euphonious name Nicho Volich.

The Swedish and Scandinavian division was fully 10,000 strong, and was one of the features of the parade. Robert Lindblom, a well known board of trade magnate, was the grand marshal.

One company was in the uniform of the Swedish dragoons, blue suits, gold strips on pants, white caps, American flag on breast, and sabres.

Another was in uniforms of blue and gold. In the center of this division were four carriages, bearing 16 ladies, wearing dresses representing the different costumes of their native land, democratic marching clubs and high school boys, Sons of Veterans, cadets and local semi-military societies were mixed up indiscriminately in the eighth division, the most striking feature of which was a float 50 feet in length representing the United States steamer Monitor, manned by 50 men and drawn by 10 horses.

It had an escort of honor of 250 representatives of the local lodges of the Sons of Veterans.

Some 3,000 members of the Modern Woodmen of America, Royal Arcanum and Hebrew societies composed the ninth division.

Among the woodmen were scattering representatives from Wisconsin, Kansas, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan, Colorado and Nebraska.

The uniform rank of the Royal Arcanum was led by division No. 1, of St. Louis, while the Hebrew contingent was escorted by a lodge of the order of Somathnoflin. The rear of the second grand division was brought up by the Ninth Italian infantry of the Knights of Pythias and the colored uniform rank of that order, commanded by Major General George F. Bowles, of Mississippi.

The colored knights were in regulation full dress uniform, and were given a hearty reception.

The third and last grand division of the parade was nearly as large as the other two combined. It was composed exclusively of members of Roman Catholic organizations, fraternal, social and benevolent. Capt. P. J. Cahill was chief marshal, and he required the services of no less than two hundred aides to keep his division in apple pie order.

The Uniformed Knights of St. Patrick, in black broadcloth, sack coats and trousers, gilt trimmings, swords in scabbard and fatigue cap, led the line. Behind them came ten thousand members of the Catholic Order of Foresters, the members of the high court occupying carriages.

The second, third and fourth divisions embraced the Roman Catholic Central Verein, various Catholic Italian societies, the Catholic Knights of America, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and several other organizations.

Nearly every court or lodge had its band. Many of the paraders were in the regalia of their respective organizations and carried large flags and banners. Every man in this division, and there were over forty thousand of them, wore a tiny American flag as a boutenniere on the lapel of his coat.

Although the route of the parade was less than three miles long the procession was fully ten miles in length. Rough estimates of the number of men in line varied from eighty to ninety thousand.

It was an imposing demonstration, but so complete had been the preparations that the vast body of marchers was handled with but comparatively trifling confusion.

The members of the various organizations saluted Vice President Morton and distinguished guests as they passed the reviewing stand at the government building and in some cases cheers for the visitors were called for and given with a will.

Strikes at the root—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That's the reason so many different diseases and disorders yield to it. They all have the same beginning—there's a torpid liver or impure blood. And they all have the same ending—they're cured, by this remedy.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness; the most obstinate Skin and Scalp Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, Eczema and kindred ailments; the worst forms of Scrofula—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages; every blood-taint and disorder, no matter how it came—all are cured by it.

It's the only medicine for all such diseases that's so positively certain in its effects that it can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, the money is refunded.

Nothing else can be "just as good." It may be better—for the dealer. But he isn't the one who needs help. Beware of spurious imitations or dilutions, offered at less prices.

Everything Points to Democratic Success.

Spencer Trask Deserts the Republican Ship.

Editor Nichols Also Declares That He Will Support the Candidate of the People.

New York, Oct. 20.—Spencer Trask, of the firm of Spencer Trask & Co., Wall street bankers, and president of the New York Edison Electric Illuminating company, director of several railroads, and heretofore conspicuously identified with the republican party, says he will vote this year for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Mr. Trask gives as a reason for the change of his belief that Cleveland can be trusted far more on the silver question than Harrison. The republican party and President Harrison, says Mr. Trask, have shown a willingness to temporize with the silver question that has disgusted him.

With regard to the tariff, Mr. Trask says the country is prosperous in spite of, and not because of the McKinley bill.

Starr Hoyt Nichols, of the Social Economist, has enlisted under the democratic banner. His reasons for so doing, as expressed in a letter to Chairman Harrity, are that he finds it impossible to hope for a reasonable reform in tariff so long as republicans remain in power and he believes the force bill attacks individual liberty.

CAPT. G. W. KIRK DEAD.

A Veteran Responds to the Last Roll Call.

Last evening, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. S. E. Quinn, 37 Huron street, Captain Geo. W. Kirk, a veteran of the war and a respected citizen, breathed his last.

Captain Kirk was 76 years of age, and an Ohioan by birth, being born at Delaware, O. He came to Toledo in 1836, and was for a number of years identified with the dry goods interests of Toledo.

He served in the war and entered the army as a private. He was captain of the gallant Fourteenth Ohio, and was in every one of the great battles in which the Fourteenth distinguished itself.

Mr. Kirk was a genial, generous man, loved by all who knew him. The funeral occurs from Mrs. Quinn's Sunday afternoon.

Porter's statistics have no authority; but so far as they may be trusted they show, here as elsewhere, that under the war tariff the benefits of manufacturing disproportionately favored the capitalist at the expense of the laborer, while under McKinley's worse than war tariff the disproportion is probably even greater.—Buffalo Courier.

VESTIBULED STREET CARS.

Employes Interested in the Law Compelling Enclosure of the Ends.

Electric street car employes are interested in the compliance or non-compliance of companies operating lines, with the law providing for the running of only such cars as are inclosed at the ends, like vestibuled cars on the railways. The platforms are to be entirely inclosed for the safety, not only of employes, but passengers as well. The men claim that it is not a hard matter to put such inclosed ends on any car by an extension of the hood over the platforms. Then there are to be doors at the sides over the steps; and a sliding sash can be arranged in the end so that the grip man and conductor can open it or close it. Such cars are in use in Indianapolis and are very pretty. The electric street car men in this city are remarking that neither of the local companies has yet taken steps toward these vestibuled cars, though the law comes into effect on the first of January, after which date they will make an effort to see that it is complied with.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS

The Work Proceeding Very Quietly.

Qualifying of Clerks and Judges of Election at Board Headquarters.

Registration of votes in the 61 precincts of the city to-day—the second regular day of registration—went on very quietly. There were no questions asked of the board of elections by the registrars as to how to proceed. Those who had any problems applied to the board between the two registration days. One interesting question thus asked was in regard to a foreign-born man whose final naturalization papers can be taken out on election day. There is no provision for registering later than the day before election, with the board; but native-born persons who attain their majority on election day can be registered with this statement, and the board thought the same treatment might be extended to the man of foreign birth. The rule of the board is not to shut anybody out from registration, who may possibly have a right to register, there being a chance in such cases for the judges to decide on the day of voting.

The following clerks of election qualified since yesterday morning, and to noon today:

First A—B. F. Osborn, D.
Third A—John W. Fluke, R.
Sixth A—Andrew J. Scott, R.
Sixth B—W. J. Bitter, D.

Sixth G—J. L. Stark, D.
Seventh D—Theo. C. Graether, D.
Seventh F—Chas. H. Lemon, D.

The board to-day began the qualification of judges of election and the following obtained their certificates:

THE LANTERN PARADE.

Aides Appointed and Place of Formation.

All Ladies and Gentlemen Invited to Participate—The Line of March As Corrected.

The cyclists are actively preparing for their part of the Columbian Day celebration, which will consist of an illuminated lantern parade in which 500 wheelmen and wheelwomen, for that matter, will participate.

The parade will form as follows:

Club members on Ontario street in front of club house.

Ladies on Ontario street, between Madison and Jefferson.

Non-members on Michigan street between Madison and Adams.

Ordinaries on Michigan, between Madison and Jefferson.

Youngsters on Madison, between Michigan and Tenth.

Capt. Mat Himes will be marshal. He has appointed the following aides:

Club division—F. B. Rigby.
Ladies—W. F. Culberson.
Ordinaries—W. Clark.
Non-members—J. H. Hunter.
Youngsters—R. Staebler.

The line of march announced elsewhere in the Bee is probably incorrect. It has been changed and will be as follows:

Madison to Summit, to Walnut, to Superior, to Chestnut, to Summit, to Riverside park.

Those in charge of the fireworks have promised that they will not be set off until the bicycle parade is over. Lower Summit street will be the best place to view the parade.

Capt. Himes extends to all ladies and gentlemen owning wheels in the city an invitation to join the parade.

MOVING A MONSTER.

Big Ferry Boat for Lake Michigan Will Coal and Clear for the Scene of Her Work.

Inspection papers, enrollment and other official documents have been granted the big railway ferry steamer Ann Arbor No. 1, lately launched from the Craig shipyards. Since she was sent afloat work has been rushed on her in all departments, even to her painting, and all got ready to move her to-day to the coal docks, where she will take on board 500 tons of fuel, and then be ready to clear for her route on Lake Michigan. She is a wonderful craft in point of strength of build and machinery. Her engines fill all the lower portion of the hull, her deck being clear for the reception of trains of cars to be ferried across the lake.

Work is proceeding on her sister boat, "Ann Arbor, No. 2," the planking being now put in, and there are hopes that she will be completed before the end of the year.

The Outing Club.

A championship match of tennis will be played at the Outing club on Monroe street Friday afternoon at 2:30 between representative players of Toledo and Ann Arbor. In the singles Robert Cummings v. Mr. Mackenzie and H. Woodbury v. Paddock, winner of several inter-collegiate tournaments. In doubles, Dodge, the present state champion and Paddock v. Cummings and Woodbury. The deciding game in foot ball between the Y. M. C. A. and Outing club will be played at 3:30. All interested in outdoor sports are invited to be present.

BIG TIME IN DEFIANCE

Opening of the New Opera House.

It Is the Talk of Neighboring Towns.

Everybody Will Turn Out and Make the Occasion a Great Society Event.

Defiance, O., Oct. 20.—(Special)—The subject of most interest to the people of this city just at present is the opening of the Citizens' opera house, which is to occur to-morrow evening.

It is an occasion which has been looked forward to with the keenest delight by the lovers of the drama in both this city and neighboring towns ever since Manager Bellmer announced the opening for October 21, with Clara Morris as the attraction.

Smith meets Brown on the street and they remark in chorus: "I suppose you are going to the opening." The younger element, which constitutes the life of the town, is not alone in enthusiasm over the event. Even the older and more conservative citizens are rejoicing in the prospect of a histronic treat.

Defiance is a good society town, and those in the social swim hail the appearance of Miss Morris as the most interesting event for many years.

There were many who, when about two years and a half ago the subject of building an elegant opera house was agitated, predicted that it never could be done. In June of the present year just two years had elapsed since the commencement of active work on the house. To-day it is finished and complete save in a few minor details which detract nothing from the fitness of the house for a performance. The scenery is in, the chairs in position, the interior decorations complete and everything in readiness for the curtain to rise on Clara Morris in Sardou's Odette.

Defiance feels justly proud of the house, and gives credit to those whose untiring efforts effected the consummation of the enterprise. The building itself is large and handsome. It was built by local contractors from plans drawn by a Minneapolis architect. It is imposing and substantial, being of brick and stone, and conveniently located in the heart of the city at the corner of Clinton and Fifth streets. The street cars from all parts of the town pass it. The location is the best for the purpose that could have been obtained. Three stories in height, and in the most modern style of architecture, it is an ornament to the city, and is pointed to with pride by the admiring citizens.

In every particular the interior of the house will compare favorably with that of any other in the state. There is a total seating capacity of 1,050, divided between the parquet, dress circle, balcony, gallery and six boxes. A fine auditorium on the ground floor is a feature. Eight exits are provided, and a thorough system of fire escapes renders the danger from a conflagration nil. The stage, 40x66, equipped with 25 sets of scenery and with a proscenium opening 32x30, can amply accommodate anything on the road. All modern fixtures and conveniences are supplied. Twelve dressing rooms add to the comfort of a troupe.

Gas jets and incandescent lamps will illuminate the house and steam will furnish the heat. The scenery is from the firm of Sosman & Landis, of Chicago, and is excellent. The Grand Rapids Chair company secured the contract for putting in their patent self-folding opera chairs. They have fulfilled it admirably. No theater in the country has better chairs.

The draperies of the boxes, etc., are cloth of gold, which will produce a rich effect. The decorations and frescoing have been executed by competent artists. The softest of brussels carpet covers the floor, and yielding crimson plush the chairs, into which one sinks as into a dream, so comfortable are they.

The scale of prices for the opening night is a trifle higher than usual, but those who have seen the renowned actress say that Miss Morris will give a performance well worth any cost.

Defiance is a city of 10,000 inhabitants and growing rapidly. Its lack of an opera house in keeping with the city has long been evident, but the want is now well supplied. None but the best companies on the road will be booked by the management, as they are assured of ample patronage.

The stockholders in the concern have been obliged to meet some heavy assessments, but will find the house a paying investment when once under headway.

Miss Morris will present Sardou's Odette, a play too well known to need anything but a bare mention. An orchestra from Wabash, Ind., composed of young ladies, will furnish the music, and also be a unique feature on the opening night.

On Friday night the great reflector in the center of the lofty ceiling will shed a blaze of golden light on a full house, composed of the cream of society, gathered for the most brilliant event in half a decade—Clara Morris in the opening of the Citizens' opera house.

Walton has just been officially bulletined as postmaster at Spring Valley, O., and Wm. H. Vankirk at Delong, Ind.

Prohibitionists at Secorville.

The prohibitionists are working hard for their county and congressional tickets. C. W. Selner, the earnest and eloquent temperance orator, speaks every night until election. Last night he spoke to a large crowd of voters at Secorville in the Haughton school house. He showed the positions of the old parties on the liquor and other questions at issue. He tore off the republican mask and showed that party to be one of deceit and treachery so far as the temperance, labor and other issues are concerned. He reviewed the history of that party since its birth in Ohio. He made a clear case, and his arguments and eloquence will not be forgotten soon. He was followed by G. Frederick, the prohibition candidate for recorder, with a short speech that was well received. To-night they speak at Alexis and next Tuesday night in Weber's hall, East Toledo.

A Good Shaking Up.

George Mathias, who deals in iron railings at 307 Water street, was working at Leland, Smith & Co.'s on St. Clair street, this morning, when he received a severe fall. He was picked up unconscious, but fortunately no bones were broken. He was removed to his home on Prescott in McGlynn's ambulance.

RUSHED TO DEATH.

Serious Accident at the City of New York Quay.

Customs Officers and Crew Meet on the Gang Plank and Go Overboard.

London, Oct. 20.—The steamer City of New York of the Inman line, which left New York October 12 for Liverpool, was entering her berth in the Alred dock at Birkenhead, at 11 o'clock last evening, when a frightful an peculiar accident occurred.

The space between the vessel and the quay is allowed for lighters, and by a long gangway across access was obtained from the quay to the steamer.

The steamer having been berthed, seven officers of the customs service started across the gangway toward the vessel. At the same time about 30 of the crew started by the same gangway for the shore.

The two parties met in the center, apparently without having noticed each other's approach and collided with crushing force, tumbling against each other, and bursting the hand rails of the gangway. The whole of the two parties, customs officers and crew, fell into the water and the shouts, cries and execrations of the injured and drowning, added to the darkness, made scene of terrible confusion and horror.

The spectators hastened with belts, buoys and boats to the rescue of the men struggling for life in the water, and succeeded in saving all the customs officers and a number of the crew.

Some of those saved had been severely crushed and otherwise injured, and one has since died. Whether more lives have been lost will be known at the pay muster to be held probably to-morrow. At present nine are believed to be missing, and a diver is searching for the bodies.

The Anchor line steamship Ethiopia, which left New York Oct. 8, for Glasgow, while entering the Clyde this morning, collided with the outward bound steamer Waldey. The Ethiopia had two plates smashed. The damage to the other vessel is unknown.

WANT MORE WAGES.

Cotton Belt Operators to Go on a Strike.

A Conference To Be Held With the General Manager of the Road.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—The telegraph operators on the Cotton Belt road will hold a conference with General Manager Doddridge for the purpose of securing an increase in wages. The conference will be a mere formality as Mr. Doddridge informed the committee last week that he would give them the same schedule agreed upon by the Missouri Pacific.

Chairman Gillen, oft he Missouri Pacific grievance committee, told a reporter this morning that the Wabash and other lines in the Gould southwest system would soon be called upon to adjust their schedule according to the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe, and Frisco roads, which have already granted an advance over the old salaries paid. The Wabash is said to pay a smaller average than the Missouri Pacific paid before the increase was granted and the grievance committee is now preparing for a conference with General Manager Hays.

As soon as the Wabash and other roads in the Gould system are dealt with a demand will be made upon the Burlington road. Grand Chief Rawsay evidently anticipates a struggle when the demand is made for an increase on the Burlintgon system, and is preparing for a fight, but until the strike on the Gulf, Santa Fe, @ Colorado road is settled no furthtr demands will be made upon any of the the roads. Grand Chief Ramsay is still in Chicago endeavoring to arrange a settlement with President Manvel, of the Atchison system.

Construction of Flats.

Mr. William Earl is erecting a brick building on Erie street, nearly opposite the jail. The structure is to be three stories high, and will contain six flats three on each side. From a vestibule and public hall on the first floor will lead two private halls, and on either side will be double parlors, dining-room, two bed-rooms, kitchen and bath-room. The second and third floor flats will be somewhat similar, with three bed-rooms each. The front will be of red brick with cut-stone trimmings, the main door and lower front windows under depressed arches, the upper windows having balconies. The work is in charge of H. F. Hall, architect and superintendent, who designed and built the Arlington flats on Erie street, between Walnut and Locust, and the house of Mr. Fred Smith, on Robinwood avenue, and who has under way another building for flats on Huron street, between Locust and Lagrange, for Miss Adele C. Mansuy, of this city, and her sister, Mrs. McNerney, of Sandusky. This will also be a three-story structure and double.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The Boys Do a Little Rehearsing This A. M.

The Program of Exercises for To-morrow Morning—Music and Prize Productions.

The high school pupils are busy to-day preparing for the big celebration to-morrow. This morning Prof. Adams, with an able staff, was engaged in trimming the outside of the building with bunting and streamers, while the boys of the senior class were drilling on the sward on the Adams street side. Somehow or other the boys didn't seem to catch on to the military tactics, but they worked hard, and will probably not execute "fours left" when the captain gives the command "fours right." The boys were at a disadvantage, as the girls came out to see the fun, seated themselves on the main steps and guyed the sterner sex when they made a mistake. The girls acted real mean, but it was lots of fun.

The sniors will wear high hats, decorated with red, white and blue, and canes wound barber-pole fashion with the national colors.

At 9 o'clock to-morrow morning there will be interesting exercises at the high school, to which friends are invited. The program will be as follows:

Song—America.
Address—Colman Frank.
Prize poem—Grace Brigham.
Song—Speed Our Republic.
Prize essay—Jessie Spore.
Song—Red, White and Blue.
Prize oration—Collin Goodrich.
Ode—Belle Beatley.
Song—Star Spangled Banner.
Salute the flag.

At 1:30 o'clock the boys will assemble in the hall and form for the parade. The girls will assemble, form, and proceed to the court house park, where all will join in the musical program.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

A Popular Young Chicago Lawyer, Though An Expert Swimmer, Helplessly Drowned—He Had Ample Wealth and $200,000 Life Insurance.

Here is a story anent life and accident insurance much out of the common run, yet of unusual force in illustrating the insecurity of this mundane existence.

Mr. G. was a young Chicago attorney, clever, energetic and popular. He was a natural money maker, sure in a few years to have been a millionaire. His health was simply phenomenal; his love of life and ability to get good and enjoyment therefrom that of one man in a thousand. His was an organization illustrated, for example, by the power to work at his office and in courts up to train time, then off to the woods, lakes or sea for a few weeks of recreation and back again to labor at the minute fixed. He has been known to leave Chicago, reach New York the sailing day of the Teutonic, go on board in the height of the season with no preliminary notice to the company, sleep on the floor of an officer's room, spend a week in London, and be back at Chicago inside of a month, having secured two or three new clients with fees more than enough to pay for a half dozen such trips. He was a gourmet in the finest sense of the term, a social and business favorite, of an English army family, happily married to a gifted lady, and the proud father of a beautiful little girl. No man ever had a heartier friend than he always proved to be; ready to encourage, laugh away apprehension, and show that life was bound to yield in the long run more of brightness than gloom.

Among the evidences of his ability was the fact that some years ago he took life and accident insurance amounting to over $200,000, all in standard companies. His wife was of a cordial, wealthy family, but it wasn't his way to expect them to care under any circumstances for him or his. He meant to be and was, fast becoming rich, but though one of the healthiest men that ever lived knew human existence to the individual to be as uncertain as a breath of morning air. So he piled on the insurance, and thought no more about it except to pay the premiums, and then plunged into hard work, honest enjoyment, and deserved happiness, with a keener relish, if possible, than ever.

He was a life-long hunter and fisherman, and had been the mainstay of coteries of lovers of gun and rod in a hundred jaunts into the wildwoods. The largest salmon ever taken by hook have had their stuffed skins shown in Chicago as tokens of his skill in the angling art, while his sureness as a shot was proverbial.

A few weeks ago he went with a small party of friends to a hunting and shooting box in an adjacent state. One day two or three of the party were fishing in separate boats, with their guns also handy in case any game should rise. Mr. G. had that morning killed the two largest fish ever taken from the lake, and had gone out again for "just one more," as he was to return home that night. A member of the party a little distance away chanced to look toward Mr. G.'s boat, and noticed the latter gentleman standing up tugging as if to remove his coat, but thought nothing of the incident until, glancing that way again, he saw that Mr. G.'s boat was empty. He at once rowed toward it. A stout line was hanging over the side. Pulling at the line there came slowly to the surface the body of his dead friend. The horrible situation was as plain as day. In handling his line while casting, Mr. G. had caught the hook in the back of his coat. Finding he could not reach it, he stood up to remove the garment, and as the two sleeves were half off the boat lurched, and, with his arms as tightly pinioned as though he was in a strait jacket, he was thrown into the water. He was one of the best swimmers in the United States, but with arms thus bound, and a coat pocket full of cartridges, and long, heavy top hunting boots, was helpless as an infant, and sank like a plummet. When death sends for a man skill, health, love of life and all else are as naught. He goes.

Meanwhile there remains in this case, besides much real estate and other property, over $200,000 of the insurance money, already received, the income of which will maintain the stricken wife in affluence and rear the child in the manner its ancestry demands. Inevitable fate cut off the man's life half a century too soon, but fate itself was powerless to nullify the results of his judgment and forethought.

WILL BE PROSECUTED.

Solicitor Read and Prosecutor Barber Confer

In the Bower Case—If the Case is Not Presented to the Grand Jury Impeachment Proceedings Will Be Established.

Some legal action will be taken in the matter of the charges preferred against Street Commissioner Bower.

The Bee announced yesterday afternoon that Solicitor Read had recommended immediate indictment and prosecution.

County Prosecutor Barber and Mr. Read were closeted together the greater part of yesterday afternoon, and the situation relative to a prosecution reviewed from beginning to end and every detail thoroughly discussed.

The investigation by the board of revision covers over a year of Mr. Bower's official transactions. There is no doubt in the minds of the authorities that the irregularities as a whole, would criminate Mr. Bower, but whether an indictment on each single transaction would hold is the question, and has not yet been determined upon.

If, however, it was decided yesterday, that it was thought best on further consideration not to present the case to the grand jury, proceedings to impeach will be established in the probate court at once.

THE SILENT SEVEN.

Woman's Cause Ably Handled by Mrs. Meriwether.

To an audience composed largely of ladies, but in which there was a fair sprinkling of gentlemen, Miss Lide Meriwether, of Tennessee, delivered her lecture on the "Silent Seven," at Memorial hall last night.

The rostrum was hung with bright orange, the suffrage color, and a unique decoration was a large national flag, hung across the rear of the platform, on which one star—representing Wyoming, where women have full suffrage—shone brilliantly. Other stars were partly covered with black, representing states where school or partial suffrage is allowed, and a number were completely hidden, these being the states where women have no rights.

Mrs. Claude Q. Murphy, president of the Political Equality club, under the auspices of which the lecture was given, made a neat introductory address, after which Mrs. Meriwether began her lecture.

She spoke of the rising generation, of the importance of training them aright, and of laws already obtained favorable to the rights of women, and the great amount of work still to be done.

Mrs. Meriwether is a woman of fine presence, and an impressive though rapid speaker.

The drilling on the floor above the hall was very disagreeable, many whole sentences being lost in this din, but on the whole the evening was an instructive and enjoyable one.

At the close of the address an impromptu reception was held, many of those present being introduced to the gifted speaker.

During her stay in the city Mrs. Meriwether was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Quigley, on Tenth street.

Forecast for Ohio—Fair till Friday morning, probably local showers Friday evening; variable winds; warmer in southeast portion Friday morning.

For Indiana—Generally cloudy weather with showers; variable winds.

For Michigan—Generally fair; local showers Friday afternoon; westerly winds; warmer in eastern portion Friday morning.

NO TAIL-ENDERS WANTED

The Big Parade Will Start on Time.

Big Parades Never Have Started at the Appointed Moment in the History of Man, But This One Will.

All the details for the big celebration to-morrow have been arranged. It was something of a task, but those who had the various arrangements in hand have done nobly, reflecting great credit on themselves and the Future Great. It will be the greatest celebration in these parts, and the inhabitants of the surrounding cities are coming to town by the thousands. It is estimated by the various ticket and railroad men that 25,000 strangers will be in the city.

The exercises will commence early in the day. At 6 o'clock in the morning all the military companies in the city will assemble in front of the armory building to participate in the raising of Old Glory on the armory for the first time. The flag will be flung to the breeze after the national salute.

Commencing at 9 a. m. there will be exercises at all the schools in the city, to which the parents and friends of the pupils in the various institutions are invited. Appropriate patriotic and historical songs, poems and recitations will be rendered, and there will be something novel and different with every school.

Col. Bunker has made a detail of old soldiers from the various G. A. R. posts in the city to attend the various schools and unite with the children in raising the flags. It is an excellent idea. What picture could be more impressive than that of the bronzed veterans and the bright, fresh young children uniting in such patriotic proceedings? Veterans residing near schools are requested to present themselves at the building in the morning and report for duty. They will be warmly welcomed.

The parade, as has been stated, will move at 2 o'clock. Col. Bunker says this means 2 o'clock, not 2:15 or 2:30. Those who are not in line at the proper time will be left out in the cold. It is desired to start on time for many reasons, but principally because it would not be wise to keep the children and veterans standing too long.

All bodies are to be in position in their respective divisions at 1:30 o'clock.

Citizens are urged to decorate along the line of march, which will be as follows: Madison and Twelfth, Twelfth to Monroe, to Summit, to Walnut, to Superior, to Adams, to St. Clair, to Madison, to Tenth, to Court House park.

No carriages or vehicles of any kind will be allowed in the parade or on the streets through which the parade passes or where the various bodies form. This order will be enforced, so vehicles should be kept in the background.

The staff officers will meet at 1 o'clock at the corner of Madison and Huron streets. The appointments made by Col. Bunker were published in yesterday's Bee. Regarding these appointments, Col. Bunker said this morning:

"I wish the staff officers as appointed to understand that I made no appointments for ornaments. The matter of their fitness was gone over thoroughly. I will need help, and lots of it. The staff was appointed for that purpose. I have not notified each one personally, as I have not had the time. I want them to take the newspaper announcements as official, and report for duty at the prescribed time."

The parade will last something over an hour. At its termination the exercises at court house park will commence, consisting of an oration by Hon. R. H. Cochran and choruses by the public and parochial school children. There will be 1,200 voices or more in the chorus.

The bicycle lantern parade will start at the cycling club house at 7:30 p. m., and will consist of 500 wheelmen on decorated wheels. The line of march will be to Madison, to Summit, to Riverside park, where the fireworks will be viewed at 8 o'clock.

Altogether the various happenings will keep the sightseer busy from early till late.

The Asphalt Problem.

No meeting of the judiciary committee was held last night, only two members, Messrs. Lee and Osborne, putting in an appearance. A number of people were on hand with grievances, among them being representatives of the people on Fulton street, to further protest against the use of inferior asphalt for the paving of that thoroughfare. This question appears to hinge on the fulfillment of the specifications in calling for "Trinidad" asphalt. Beside the lake asphalt there is a kind that is taken from outlying pools, and is neither so pure nor so lasting, yet fulfills the condition of being "Trinidad." The fight has been to secure the use of lake pitch asphalt. The committee was induced to recommend a readvertising for bids, calling for the lake pitch, but the board of aldermen sent the report back to the committee, and so the matter remains. In other jobs, since the question was raised, the specifications have called for lake asphalt.

IN HIS FEET AND LEGS.

Old Uncle Tom Feels Rain for To-Morrow,

But Weather Observer Hanner Thinks Not—The Conditions Atmospheric, Barometric and All the Other Ics.

Weather Observer Hanner said to-day: "Things don't look as well for fair weather to-morrow as they did yesterday, but, at the same time, I don't anticipate any rain, and I think we will have a fair and warm day to-morrow. The only probability in the direction of rain is a slight disturbance in the extreme southwest, with Cairo, St. Louis and Kansas City as the advance line, where there was rain this morning. It is hardly probable that rain will reach us, as it seems to be more of a local character than anything else. If Chicago doesn't get rain to-morrow it will be lucky. The chances are greater for rain there to-morrow than here. At any rate, I shall close the shop, and expect to go out and see a big parade; and if it rains, I'm going to leave town."

Old Uncle Tom, the colored boot-black at the Hamilton house, on the other hand, fears rain to-morrow. When asked why, he said: "I feel it in my feet and legs; and I can tell pretty nearly when it's going to rain."

George Gould's purchase of a new house on Fifth avenue, opposite Central Park, is construed as indicating that he believes the time has come for him to demand social recognition. His friends have known for some time that he was contemplating a social departure by magnificence of entertainment.

Bishop Brennan, of Texas, now Archbishop of the Catholic provinces of Dallas, is the youngest man of his rank in the world, and his promotion is said to be Pope's Leo's own personal act.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST!

Official Test of Rubber-Lined Cotton Fire Hose by the Board of Fire Commissioners of Duluth, Minn., February 25, 1892.

The Board of Fire Commissioners of the city of Duluth, Minn., recently received proposals from manufacturers of fire hose to furnish the city with additional hose for fire department service.

Owing to the fact that every agent present upon that occasion, claimed to represent the ONLY brand of hose that could be depended upon to dischage the greatest quantity of water, all other conditions being equal, the commissioners finally resolved to satisfy themselves, and declared in favor of having a public test. Manufacturers who desired to enter the test were requested to furnish 500 feet of hose, with Duluth fire department couplings attached.

Seven competitors entered the field. Each line of hose—500 feet—was attached to a steam fire engine, and subjected to a water pressure of 200 lbs. to the square inch, and discharged water through 1 1-8-inch smooth bore nozzle. Note the result:

Name of Company	Brand of Hose.	Weight of Hose per Section	Effective Pressure at Nozzle.	Gall'ns Disch'rg'd per Minute	Ratio in Gals Disch'rg'd per Hr.	No of gal. less per hr. than disch'd by the surprise hose.	Elongation of Hose.
Eureka Fire Hose Co...	Surprise Jacket....	59¼ lbs	95 lbs	359	21,540	000	11½ ft
C. Callahan Co.........	Callahan Jacket...	59½ lbs	89 lbs	347	20,820	720	14 ft
Gutta Percha Mfg. Co..	Baker Fabric	48¾ lbs	85 lbs	339	20,340	1200	32 ft
Fabric Fire Hose Co....	Unique Jacket.	68½ lbs	84 lbs	337	20,220	1320	26 ft
Chicago Fire Hose Co...	National Jacket...	61 lbs	82¼ lbs	334	20,040	1500	44 ft
Revere Rubber Co......	American Jacket..	62½ lbs	80 lbs	329	19,740	1800	14 ft
Boston Woven Hose Co	Boston Fire Jacket	52 lbs	79 lbs	327	19,620	1920	27 ft

Owing to a high wind prevailing during the test, the distance reached by each stream was not taken into consideration.

The "Surprise" hose not only showed the best results at the nozzle but delivered the greatest quantity of water, and stretched less than any other hose that entered the test.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

There is Certainly Danger Ahead for Us.

We Do Not Mean to Cause Alarm in this Community,

But There is a Grave Matter Which Demands Attention.

It is a sad and alarming fact that the community in which our paper circulates is terribly afflicted at present with a most serious form of disease which fifty years ago was almost unknown.

Are we in danger?

The answer is decidedly yes, unless immediate action is taken.

If the disease was small-pox, diphtheria, typhus fever or other contagious affection, how quickly and energetically our people would rise and crush out its progress. But because the disease is not contagious we have heretofore shut our eyes to its dangers.

The form of affection about which we write, that is rapidly becoming so prevalent in our midst, and concerning which we desire to sound the note of alarm, is that class known as nervous diseases. It is attacking all ages and all classes of people, those who follow professions as well as business men, clerks, mechanics and laborers. It manifests itself in various ways and forms, but the cause is always the same—weakness of the nerves.

Just why there should be such an enormous increase of nervous affections among our residents is difficult to understand, yet, as all can see, such diseases are becoming fearfully common.

Men and women complain of feeling weak, tired, nervous, with feeling of exhaustion, both nervous and physical. They do not sleep or eat well, wake more tired mornings than when they retire, their stomachs are out of order, bowels constipated, liver torpid, and the kidneys may be affected, giving pain and weakness in the back, while the water appears unnatural and often has a sediment.

But the principal symptoms are the nervousness, and weak, tired and prostrated feelings.

A lady of our acquaintance, Miss Annie Oakes, who resides in Athol Centre Mass., has been a great sufferer from nervous affections, and thinking that her experience, and especially how she succeeded in curing her troubles, may be of great service to those of our readers who may be similarly suffering, we give below her own words in regard to the case:

"I suffered from nervous and physical prostration, was very nervous, weak and run down, I was sleepless, only sleeping three hours in twenty-four. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and before I had taken one bottle I began to improve. It was wonderful. Everybody was surprised to see how I had gained in strength and flesh. I now sleep seven hours every night and have gained 10 pounds. So I say every day, God bless Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I also had the grippe, but came up from that terrible disease on the Nervura all right."

Now we know all about this case, that every word is true, and we assure our readers that this wonderful medicine is an absolute specific—a sure and positive cure for these nervous diseases. We therefore advise its immediate use, and if sufferers will heed our advice, our community will not be long in ridding itself of all nervous affections, before they run into those dread results, insanity, paralysis, nervous prostration or death.

This wonderful remedy is not a patent medicine, but is the prescription and discovery of the great specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who can be consulted free by all, personally or by letter.

Don't fail to get this remedy at once from your druggist, for it is purely vegetable and harmless, and costs but $1. It will cure you.

The social will conclude with the pleasing little comedy, "Caught in a Mouse Trap," rendered by a company composed of members of the society and camp. The manner of observing Columbia day was discussed, and it was finally decided that the ladies would assemble upon Steadman manument and witness the parade at that place, they having the permission of the mayor to do so.

Recruiting the Union.

The local Tailors' union in their action to compel non-union men in open shops to join the union only took action on three shops where the majority of the hands employed were union men, and only a few non-union men were working. Some of these had formerly belonged to the union, but had allowed their membership to lapse. The union men had been trying for a long time to get them in, but they seemed reluctant, hence the strong action of the union in refusing to work with them unless they joined the union. This pressure was successful. The three firms alluded to are spoken of by the men as always good concerns to work for, and the play was only at the non-union men. The union will hold a special meeting this evening to hear the report of the committee and to initiate the new members.

The Commercial Travelers.

The Toledo Traveling Men's association has posted in the various hotels notices inviting commercial travelers who happen to be in the city to-morrow to join in the general jollification and come to the T. T. M. A. rooms, 516 Summit street, at 1 p. m., to take part in the parade.

The pulpit will be handsomely decorated with the national colors.

A Jolly Y. P. S. C. E. Social.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Congregational church gave an artists' social at the home of Miss Almena Seagrave last evening. Opening exercises were conducted by Miss Lucretia Heston and Rev. W. W. Williams led in prayer. This was followed by a representation of a picture gallery, which was conducted by Miss Jessie Foster, who introduced the following characters in an interesting manner: George Tuttle was a pirate; Olive Parmelee, Mother Goose; Walter Chase, Dude; Almena Seagrave, sleeping beauty; Susie Parmelee, chromo; Lucretia Heston, nun; Jessie Seagrave, coquette; Anna Whitaker, school girl. Cards were then passed around bearing the names of popular songs which entitled one to a draw, which was symbolic of the song. One young lady received a card with John Brown's body written upon it, and in consequence drew a body minus the head and limbs. The libray was then thrown open, and a number of young ladies quaintly attired represented Mary, Mary quite contrary, Brown-eyed Susan, etc. Chocolate and wafers were served during the evening, and the occasion was highly enjoyable. The decorations were autumn leaves, which were artistically arranged.

A METRICAL MINIATURE.

Her eyes display a blended hue
Of summer skies and violets blue,
With just a tint of April dew
To make her glances bright;
But, lest their lustre be too fair,
And brighter than the world could bear,
Long lashes, like a silken snare,
Befringe her lids of white.

Shy apple-blossoms flushed with morn
Have lent their color to adorn
Her cheek, whereon is gayly born
A dimple with each smile.
Her wayward tresses scorn to rest
By ribbon bound or fillet prest,
And ever weave at their behest
Fresh graces to beguile.

Her curving lips by turns recall
Red roses, poppies, cherries—all
That wins the eye or could enthrall
A hermit or a saint.
Her gleaming teeth 'twere vain to hymn;
The brightest words are all too dim;
The artist who their light would limn
Must crush a pearl for paint.

Beneath her kirtle peeps a foot
That charms in slipper, gaiter, boot;
Whose music makes the birds grow mute
With bended heads to hear.
Her hand can boast perfection's mould,
In winter warm in summer cold
And just the temperature to hold
At any time of year.

A snowy neck, a witching chin,
An ear in tint the sea-shell's twin,
A saucy nose—just put that in—
The bonnie little belle!
Her name? Ah, there I hesitate;
With many a rival at her gate,
Her name, until I know my fate,
'Twere wiser not to tell.

We base this assertion on our observation of over thirty years, in which time a very large number and variety of Skin Diseases have been reported to us as cured, by the simple use of Heiskell's Ointment, without the aid of internal remedies. Many of these were cases of long duration, that had resisted the treatment of the most eminent medical talent in this and other countries. Marblehead—Byron F. Ritchie, date to be announced hereafter.

Register to-night.

Decorate the business houses and residences, and throw out the Star-Spangled banner to the breeze to-morrow.

The first duty of democrats is to register, and this should be attended to before the polling booths close this evening.

Defiance is putting on style to-day and rejoicing over a brand-new and splendid opera house. Toledo congratulates her.

President Harrison has not yet denied the charge made by Attorney General Hensel that Harrison superintended the buying of votes in Indiana.

"Vote for me or I will have you discharged and blacklisted," is Ashley's threat to the railroad men of Toledo. How do you like it, railroaders?

Col. W. A. Taylor, democratic candidate for secretary of state, is spending the week in Cincinnati talking politics at ward meetings, which are well attended.

According to the great estimater, E. W. Poe, the state auditor, reports of personal property valuation show an increase of over nine million dollars for 1892 over 1891.

Ohio officials are all at Chicago this week—brass buttons, gold cords, and the rest of the paraphernalia. It is to be hoped no one will run off with the state house.

Two more prominent New York republicans have declared for Cleveland and Stevenson. Verily, it looks as though the republican defection was becoming epidemic.

Governor Ashley has not made reply to the card of Mr. E. D. Potter, jr., on the lower town park question. Surely the Governor does not go under cover at the first volley.

The opening of the new armory building is worthy of a celebration on its own account. No city in Ohio has as fine a soldiers' memorial building and armory as has Toledo.

The final meeting of the general committee on arrangements for to-morrow's celebration will be held at Mayor Emmick's office this evening. Every member should be present.

Gen. I. R. Sherwood, formerly of Toledo, is stumping in the old Sixteenth and new Seventeenth districts for the democratic cause. Local papers speak highly of the General's addresses.

Bulldozing railroad men will not work this trip. The railroad boys, even if they were as servile as Ashley's managers estimate them, are sufficiently protected by the Australian ballot to be supremely independent.

Republican congressional candidates do not appear to have the joint debate fever this year. In our own district, Mr. Ashley wants none of it, and Col. Hodge refuses to meet Tom Johnson at Cleveland. Why is this?

The Bee will go to press to-morrow shortly after noon, to permit of all employes participating in the Columbus day celebration. The issue will be appropriate to the occasion, and will have a full account of the opening exercises at Chicago.

Senator Proctor has just been elected for the full term in the United States senate, besides filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Edmunds. This is much better than remaining as secretary of war in President Harrison's cabinet until next March.

Hamilton county democrats are perfecting their organization to redeem the county from republican misrule, and while doing this, will endeavor to retire Bellamy Storer and Caldwell, congressional nominees in the two Cincinnati districts. May success attend the effort.

It is a matter of comment that State Auditor Poe, formerly of Bowling Green, is not making the number of speeches in this campaign which it was his pleasure to deliver last year. The complexion of the state committee is rather too Shermanish to allow "Eb" to talk, even at his own expense.

No such body of men has ever before been collected as fills the streets of the city of Chicago to-day. All flags on the globe are represented and the fame and glory of the Stars and Stripes will be heralded all over the world. "Old Glory" certainly floats proudly to-day.

Register this evening. Polls are open until 9 o'clock.

Hon. M. D. Harter, congressional candidate in the Fourteenth district, has been invited to address the New York business men's mass meeting. Mr. Harter is well equipped to speak to such a gathering, and the invitation is alike an honor to his constituents as well as himself. Another case of the Ohio man in demand.

The manner in which Chicago is handling the Columbian dedication gives ample proof of why Chicago became the western metropolis. They never do anything by halves, and every man, woman and child roots for Chicago. It is a beautiful object lesson for the people of Toledo.

It is a nice state of affairs that exist in the police department. The trouble among Chiefs Ruitz and Spore is the direct result of the incompetency of such rulers as Mr. Doville. The new commissioner has not a particle of interest in the welfare of the department, and cares nothing for it except as an institution wherein his friends may obtain soft snaps. His attempt to remove Dr. Whiteford, an old and respected citizen, and appoint Reynolds in his stead, is a sample of the boss's doings.

There is scarcely a doubt but that Cleveland will carry New York state. The writer has seen a letter written by a republican leader, who stands near the throne at Washington, wherein it is conceded that Cleveland will carry New York. Even if Cleveland does not carry New York, he writes, he will be the next president, as Harrison will lose enough states west of the Mississippi river, through the influence of the third party, to throw the election into the house, in which event Cleveland will be selected by congress. In other words, if Harrison should carry New York, he yet could not be elected, and Cleveland, without New York, can.

James Ashley, jr., boastingly affirms that if his father should be elected to congress—which the good Lord forbid—Ashley will rule and run the republican party, rank and file, for the next ten years, in Lucas county and the district. There is a good deal of truth in the boast. Jim Ashley, sr., is just the kind of a man, who, with a sufficiency of money, can make his own terms and be the dictator of the fate and fortune of his party in this section for many years to come. Should Jim Ashley be elected—which again the good Lord forbid—where will the Foraker element be? John Sherman and William McKinley, backed by the Ashley influences, will rule the roost, so to speak, and Mr. Foraker and his friends will be as dead politically as if they were not on earth.

It appears rather early to discuss candidates for governor in 1893 when the state is wrestling with a presidential election. But a well-defined boom has started for Hon. Walter B. Richie, of Lima, for the position, and it is rolling along at a rapid rate. Mr. Richie would make an excellent nominee, being free from all factional squabbles. Vigorous, young and able, genial and popular, he would infuse into the canvass a spirit of life not seen in some years. He has achieved high standing in the practice of law, is well and favorably known throughout the state, and possesses all the elements of success. What a round majority the Northwest's Gibraltar of Democracy will roll up for Richie. His chances for the nomination are now the best of any of the gentlemen named.

POSERS FOR MR. ASHLEY.

The Commercial grows hysterical in its attempt to bolster up the waning cause of its candidate, Ashley.

It cannot be done. Ashley's political career is too well known and its complexion of too pronounced a color to be changed at this time of day.

The charge that Ashley was a know-nothing the Commercial indignantly denies. Why, Ashley's chief support in the memorable fight in Memorial hall, when he secured his nomination under singular and somewhat shady circumstances, was from the same element—the same anti-American, know-nothing organizations of which Ashley was a recognized member, if not a leader, thirty years ago.

Mr. Ashley's record is an open book to the voters of this district for over thirty years.

He will not, and cannot deny—

First—That he was a pro-slavery democrat of the rankest type up to 1852.

Second—That he came to Toledo with the avowed purpose of starting a democratic newspaper and of crushing abolitionism out of the democratic party.

Third—That in 1853 he was a pronounced prohibitionist, urging the enactment in Ohio of the Maine liquor law.

Fourth—That in the same year he was a member of the know-nothing party, with the motto, "Put none but Americans on guard."

Fifth—That in 1856 he was a republican and remained one until his repudiation by the republicans of this district in 1868, and his prompt removal from office by President Grant in 1869.

Sixth—That from that time for 20 years afterward he was an avowed and open free trade democrat.

Seventh—That he held office or was an applicant for office during all his connection with the republican party, and left it only when nothing further could be obtained from it by him.

Eighth—That in 1874 he sought the democratic nomination for congress in this district, and was defeated by Frank H. Hurd by a vote of 166 to 561 in the convention at Napoleon.

When Ashley has satisfactorily answered and explained the above charges, the Bee will have another series equally as important and equally as pertinent to propound.

WAGES IN ENGLAND.

Absurd Twaddle of Protectionist Orators.

Carnegie is reported to have said lately that free trade is better for England than would be protection. I cannot think there is an intelligent republican in this country that would not agree with him. I know nothing more infinitely absurd, I may say, more knavishly partisan than this continual reference by protectionist speakers and editors, to wages in England as exemplifying the workings of free trade. A more monstrous perversion of the facts of the case could scarcely be imagined. The great law of supply and demand fixes the rate of wages in England as it does everywhere.

England has many millions of very poor people, made so by iniquitous social and economic laws in the past. Only a fool or a political knave would say that free trade had anything to do with the creation of what the protectionists call "pauper laborers." Those who do this hope to deceive the ignorant—an exceedingly numerous class.

Nothing encourages the free trader to hope for speedy triumph more than the character of the utterances that seem to be relied on to perpetuate the robber system of protection. For any system whose advocates are obliged to resort to such wilful misrepresentations of plainest facts must be doomed.

A cry, however, is more difficult to meet than an argument. The republican cry that free trade pleases England is more potent than all the so-called facts, and attempted arguments that may be piled up between now and election. It is an appeal to the lowest prejudices, and the most selfish interests of the multitude. Lincoln once said that you may deceive part of the people part of the time, but not the whole people all the time. It is to be hoped that the time is near at hand for the fulfillment of the truth of the latter part of this saying.

CHAS. CRAVENS.

IT IS SHAMEFUL.

Ashley's Manager Threatens Railroad Employes.

The Worst Case of Bulldozing on Record.

A Circular Letter That Will Prove a Boomerang—Vote for Me or Lose Your Jobs, See?

Despairing and desperate.

This is the situation in which the Ashley management finds itself.

Never in the history of Lucas county politics have such despicable means been taken to coerce and bulldoze the workingmen.

It is inconceivable that in this day and age of the world men can resort to the old systems of brute force and coercion to cause men to vote against their conscience.

The Ashely management has sent out circular letters to prominent railroaders throughout the district requesting a personal endorsement.

Accompanying the circular is another which gives Ashley's great qualities as an employer and a man,, and a blank space is left for the signature of the employe.

The circulars are being signed by the hundred and the names are to be printed.

Of course the circulars will be signed. The average railroader cannot afford to lose his situation, and lose it he will unless he signs the circular.

Not only will he lose his position, but the well-known Ashley patent boycott and blacklist process will be brought to bear on the unfortunate victim who dares fend this high-handed dictator.

Not less than 50 railroad men have visited democratic headquarters on Summit street and explained that while they were compelled to sign the circular they would work and vote against Ashley.

"I signed the circular," one of them said his morning indignantly, "and my name will probably appear in the Blade list, but I want to say right here that I'll see Ashley damned before he gets my vote. I am a republican and so are my three brothers and I propose voting my ticket, with the exception of Ashley."

One man, who has 50 men in charge, reported last evening that he was summoned to Toledo—he lives 20 miles out on the Air Line—and commanded to have the 50 votes cast for Ashley.

He says he will see that they are cast the other way.

The circular will prove a boomerang. Railroaders are not the kind of men who can be bulldozed.

Union labor will properly rebuke this attempt at coercion.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

A Big and Beautiful Party Banner Hung High and Wide Across Summit Street.

Democracy has displayed its candidates in fine shape by a magnificent campaign banner, hung across Summit street last evening, close to the committee headquarters. It is composed of network upon which is worked at the top in bold letters "Democratic Nominations." Immediately below—one on each side—are well painted pictures of Cleveland and Stevenson, and the lettered lines

"For President, GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York."

"For Vice President, ADLAI E. STEVENSON, of Illinois.

"For congress, BYRON F. RITCHIE."

"For circuit judge, CHARLES H. SCRIBNER; for Common Pleas Judge, PRESTON C HUDSON."

The two sides of the banner are similarly painted, and it makes a brave show above the trolley wires of the street car system, stretching wide and rising high as the party boast of worthy men advanced for popular indorsement.

OHIO NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

How is This?

Blaine announces that he will vote the republican ticket this fall. This removes considerable doubt, as it was more than he did at the October election in Maine. —Mansfield Shield.

For All That.

"I have no controversy with Mr. Cleveland. On important and critical questions he has been firmly right."—Senator John Sherman.

This is why Grover had always been against John. Still John's admission is valuable, and it is only two weeks old.—Canton News-Democrat.

Basis of Hope.

The begging letters that are being sent by republican committees to office holders and privates alike, force the belief that said committees have reached the conclusion that money is the only thing that will save the republican party this trip.—Lima Times.

Wickham and Bricks.

Among the reasons why Wickham should be defeated the Bellevue people mention bricks—paving bricks—and they are mad enough to tear them up and throw them at him, as well as their ballots. The poll of that precinct will show a curious count on the night of election. It is usually a good deal republican, but in his case there will be quite an Xmarked deviation.—Sandusky Journal.

Revenge is Sweet.

Blaine is a power in the republican party even in defeat, and he has Benjamin and all his followers upon their knees, begging him to save them from certain and deserved defeat. Time has its revenges. When Harrison kicked Blaine out of the cabinet, he didn't think he would be on his knees in a few months after, begging his pardon and his help.—Tiffin Advertiser.

About Those Wool Circulars.

The republicans are flooding the state with a wool circular promising better prices in the future if the republican party is again successful. It can be set down as a fact that the price of wool will never advance so long as the present iniquitous tariff law is in force. If farmers want a better price for their wool they can only obtain it by voting the democratic ticket. —Findlay Courier.

Mr. Cleveland's Manliness.

Every man possessing at least a fair degree of the trait of human kindness will think more of Mr. Grover Cleveland after reading his letter declining the invitation to be present as an honored guest at the World's Columbian exposition ceremonies. No partisan, intelligent or otherwise, can find it in his heart to believe that the letter is not sincere; no one will be so utterly incredulous of Mr. Cleveland's honesty that he could say it is a mere device to attract public attention. We do not propose to attempt an analysis to prove our conclusion; it will suffice to make the assertion that we believe Mr. Cleveland entirely sincere in his courteous respect for an opponent who is now in the shadow of an impending affliction. And we further declare our belief in the manliness which influenced Mr. Cleveland to put aside the chance to turn a pilrimage like that to Chicago into a vote acquiring tour. We are well assured of the fact that a partisan press will on one side laud in fulsome terms and on the other sneer or maintain silence concerning this letter, which illustrates the character of Mr. Cleveland. To heartil commend and fully appreciate the manliness of an action like that under discussion, is, terefore, a pleasing privilege of the independent press and all honest people whether partisans or not. —Columbus Dispatch.

GOSSIP FROM THE OUTSIDE PRESS.

Changed His Face Often.

According to the artists Christopher Columbus possessed a wonderful collection of faces.—Washington Post.

Most Important Plank.

One of the most important high tariff planks is that the protected manufacturers at the proper time plank down their big campaign checks.—Philadelphia Times.

Can't Think of Anything Bad Enough.

The republican organs have not yet decided what kind of a horse thief to call ex-Governor Cox, of Ohio.—New York World.

A Fruitless Search.

As a man-hunter ex-Governor Campbell is not a success. He is still hunting the man whose wages were raised by McKinleyism.—New York World.

In a Debilitated Condition.

When Senator Ingalls speaks in Chicago it is to be hoped the Chicago river will disinfect itself. Ingalls is in a fix to catch anything going.—St. Louis Republic.

Slow But Sure.

Women have secured the privilege of voting for school officials in 21 of the 44 states. Slowly but surely our wives, sisters, cousins and aunts are getting there. Denver Times.

Give the Old Man a Chance.

It is said that Mrs. Lease has offered to speak for the republicans on "Southern Outrages." Old man Lease might take the stump and give the public a few pointers on domestic outrages.—Washington Post.

A Splendid Object Lesson.

Raum on the stump pleading for four years more of his private snap in the pension bureau is all the democratic managers could ask for in the way of an object-lesson.—New York World.

But for Sweet Charity's Sake.

Not in anger; not in resentment; not in partisanship; not even in reminiscence do we say that in one corner of the copy of Blaine's Ophir speech handed the Associated Press reporter should have been written, "Burn this."—St. Louis Republic.

Weaver's Childlike Confidence.

"We shall sweep everything before us," says Gen. Weaver. This sublime faith knocks out even Mrs. Partington's, who thought she could sweep out the Atlantic ocean overflow with a broom.—Chicago Mail.

Had Better Keep Still.

It is said that Mr. Blaine is to make other speeches for Harrison and Reid. Well, if his other efforts are no better than the speech he delivered at Ophir farm last Friday they will constitute a very insignificant episode in the campaign. —Atlanta Journal.

The Masses Can't Afford to Be Indifferent.

Even those persons who are indifferent about bribery in elections cannot afford to let corruption win. Every dollar yielded up by the protected monopolists comes out of the people in taxes or increased prices.—N. Y. World.

They Will All Want a Copy.

Andrew Carnegie has emerged from his seclusion in the Scottish highlands to announce to the world that he has written another book on the industrial problems of the day. It will probably find a large sale among the striking miners of Homestead.—Atlanta Journal.

Why This Wailing and Gnashing of Teeth?

Judge Gresham must be more amused than otherwise at the rantings and ravings of the Harrison editors and orators, who, in the midst of all, yet insist that the defection of the great jurist only amounts to one vote. Why, then, do they beat their breasts and tear their hair.—Denver Times.

Or Does It Mean More "Readjustment?"

The Carnegies have contributed $100,000 and the Olivers $50,000 to the republican campaign fund. Does this look as if these gentlemen expect to make up these royal gifts to corrupt the voters by increasing wages and giving steady work to employes.—Wheeling Register.

Does Credit to Himself.

Mr. Cleveland's refusal to go to Chicago is highly creditable to him. His journey to that city to attend the opening ceremonies of the world's fair would have been a political tour, and he refuses to make it while his great opponent is prevented from going by domestic affliction. This is the best point Mr. Cleveland has made in the campaign.—Louisville Commercial.

His Salvation at Stake.

With the McKinley tariff as a crushing incubus and the force bill as a looming spectre, the southern white man may well be interested in this campaign and feel that he has everything at stake and that his own and his section's salvation depends upon the success of the democratic party and the election of Grover Cleveland.—Wilmington Star-Democrat.

Another Convert.

One of the latest recruits to the Cleveland standard is Mr. Henry W. Bartol, a retired sugar refiner of Philadelphia. Mr. Bartol received a circular soliciting subscriptions to the campaign funds of the union league republican club, of which he has for a long time been an active and influential member, and in reply he states that he has "decided to support and vote for Grover Cleveland." One of the reasons which he gives for this change is that "in the passage of the McKinley bill the republican party has departed from the principles which it has heretofore advocated." Another influence which has operated with Mr. Bartol is the approval of the dangerous silver bill of 1890 by President Harrison.—Boston Herald.

The Missing Link.

Matthew S. Quay, the notorious embezzler lobbyist and corruptionist, who was forced off from the last national committee by public opinion, turned up at the republican headquarters yesterday to give the managers the benefit of his expert advice as a boss political crook.

As if Martin, Voorhees and Hackett were not enough, Quay must be sent for too!

The desperate state of the republican campaign is revealed by the desperate measures to which the managers resort.

The rascally league is now perfected. The "combine" of the Pharisees and the crooks is complete. Quay is the last link in the chain of iniquity.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Detective McLaughlin's Retort.

To the Editor: With regard to the alleged charges made at the police board by the chief of police last night, it is only proper for me to state that I need no reference for the people of Toledo as to my character or the work I have performed. I have been employed as a detective for different corporations in the vicinity for 14 years, and have done jobs for the most prominent residents of our city and there never has been a smirch on my name. It may not be out of place for me to state that my record was of such a strong character as to induce between four and five hundred Toledoans to sign a petition for my appointment as chief of police, but I would not think of accepting a place which would remove a friend. When the proper time arrives I will appear before the board and answer in a way which will probably not be satisfactory to men who could be in better business than assailing a fellow citizen's reputation.

TRADING HARRISON.

An Importation From Milwaukee on Missionary Work.

Employed by Ashley in His Own Interests.

Pole Raising in the Sixth and Eighth—General Political Notes of Interest.

Frank Geygroszewski is the tough-sounding and unpronounceable name of a gentleman that the Ashley management has imported from Milwaukee to do missionary work in the two Polish settlements here.

Ashley in his desperation proposes trading off the head of the ticket to save his own neck.

Frank—never mind his other name—has been attempting for the past two days to have Polish voters promise to vote for Ashley in return for which he (Frank) will secure a vote here or in Milwaukee for Grover Cleveland.

Frank says he is employed by the republican executive committee.

The Ashleyites must certainly be desperate to resort to such despicable methods to gain an election.

The democrats who would think of making such a trade is unworthy the name.

Stand by Ritchie. He will make a model congressman.

District Meetings.

The following are a few of the dates and places where democratic speakrs will deliver addresses this and next week.

Oct. 20, Genoa—B. F. Ritchie.
Oct. 22, Port Clinton—Barton Smith and F. E. Wright.
Oct. 26, Freeport—B. F. Ritchie with T. N. Bierly, esq.
Oct. 27, Pemberville—B. F. Ritchie with A. R. Campbell, esq.
Oct. 28, Bowling Green—B. F. Ritchie.
Oct. 31, Grand Rapids—B. F. Ritchie, with Frank Taylor, esq.
Nov. 5, North Baltimore—James E. Campbell.
Nov. 7, Perrysburg—B. F. Ritchie, with Hon. L. C. Cole.

Frank H. Hurd will probably speak here next week and Mr. Ritchie will also speak in all the above places on the dates named.

Political Notes.

E. D. Potter and B. F. Wade fly handsome Cleveland and Stevenson banners from their residences in lower town.

There will be a democratic rally at Ironville and another in the Eigth ward Saturday night. Good local speakers will be present at both.

A special meeting of the chairmen of the various democratic county committees of the district will be held Saturday at democratic headquarters.

Foster Warren and ex-Senator Ryan were among the visitors at democratic headquarters yesterday. Both brought very encouraging reports. The farmers are after Ashley's scalp.

There has been a wonderful demand for the issue of the Bee which contained B. F. Ritchie's great speech at Oak Harbor.

The democrats of the Sixth ward will hold a meeting at Weber's hall to-morrow evening for the purpose of organizing a democratic club.

F. N. Quale yesterday reiterated the statement published in the Bee that he would not under any circumstances vote for Ben Harrison. The statement was made in the presence of half a dozen witnesses.

W. H. Beals, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., was in town to-day, and made the Bee a pleasant call. Mr. B. states that the political situation in his state is doubly sure for Cleveland's success. He further states that in his travels since the nominations have been made that there are great gains for the democracy.

ASHLEY AND LABOR.

Last Sunday's Meeting of Railroad Men.

The "true inwardness" of the rairoad men's meeting last Sunday has not been, and will not be, explained by the organs of Mr. Ashley, who was present, and who has, of course, explained to them what took place, at the same time ordering them to say as little about it as possible. The meeting was a good one, the different orders of railway men being represented. Certain grievances against Gov. Ashley as president of the Toledo & Ann Arbor road were presented, and the railroaders persisted in staying till Mr. Ashley's friends brought him to meet the charges. It was late in the evening before he came. He was inclined to disbelieve some charges till confronted by documentary evidence. He at last professed personal ignorance of all though head of the road, oilily stated that he could no nothing now, lest he might be accused of influencing votes; but promised that all these wrongs would be righted—after the election—whether he was returned or not.

This is the first time he has admitted the possibility of defeat, but he begins to decipher the handwriting on the wall. He virtually admits the existence of wrongs to be righted, but craftily postpones action till after the election! If there are wrongs they should be attended to at once; but instead this asseverative friend of organized labor postpones the use of his "great personal influence," makes a scapegoat of his superintendent, whom he does not fail to retain in position. Verily, Ashley is a very "promising" candidate.

ONE OF THE REASONS

For Mr. Ashley's Desire to Get to Congress—Harbor at Frankfort, Mich.

To the Editor: It is pretty generally understood along the line of the Toledo & Ann Arbor railway, in Michigan, at least, that the prime motive Mr. Ashley has in becoming the representative in congress from this district, is to secure a fat appropriation from the government to build a harbor at Frankfort, Mich., from which place cars are to be ferried across Lake Michigan. The writer has been informed by a person of large experience in navigating the lakes, that the harbor is a very poor one, and that a large expenditure of money will be necessary to make it even tolerable. This money will have to come from the T. & A. railway unless a pull can be had on Uncle Sam. Inasmuch as this harbor is almost exclusively for the benefit of this railroad, it is the duty of the "plain people," at least, to see that this corporation builds its own ferry slips. Let the great impeacher stay at home.

FULTON COUNTY.

Just Include Lucas Too.

There are no more industrious, enegetic and frugal farmers in the country than live right here in Hancock county, but they can't produce wool at 22 cents or raise wheat at 65 cents and make a profit. The republican tariff is prostrating agriculture and the farmer is beaten and buncoed out of a decent living price for his products. There is no hope of better times for him under republican legislation, and he should try a change. Vote the democratic ticket this fall.—Findlay Courier.

THE OLD FAMILIAR WAY.

Turn the light a little low
(Choose the parlor if you can—
On your knees you'll have to go
If you do it like a man).
Cultivate a nervous look,
Bid a sigh your fears betray,
She will read you like a book—
In the old familiar way!

Trust her woman's heart for aid;
All expectant woman dare;
Something whispers to the maid
Just the words you'll falter there.
Drop the flower from your coat,
Follow it, and, kneeling, stay;
Doubtless she the trick will note—
'Tis the old familiar way!

Gently take her little hand,
Softly press it with a kiss;
Do not mind her reprimand,
'Twill enhance the coming bliss
Tell her that you love her more
Than your words can e'er convey;
Say you've never loved before—
'Tis the old familiar way!

She will blush—a teardrop shed—
Sweeter than the prosy "Yes!"
And will almost turn your head
With her added loveliness.
Understand her mute consent,
Rise at once and boldly say:
"May I, then, our lives cement
In the old familiar way?"

As your lips in kisses meet,
Brother Teddy's laugh you'll hear;
She will call you indiscreet,
But her wrath you needn't fear.
Never mind the tales he'll hatch;
Boys grow older every day
P'raps your youngsters him may catch
In the old familiar way!

Strawberries are fruit; so are tomatoes, melons and cucumbers. One suggested distinction between a vegetable and a fruit is that the latter may be eaten raw, while the former must be cooked, but that doesn't hold always. Technically, a fruit incloses the seeds of the plant and is matured overground; plant growth matured underground is a vegetable.

What friendship is there in brining about a condition of things which deprives the farmer of his most extensive and profitable market? Should the American agriculturist help to perpetuate the ascendency of a party whose legislation has contributed to the infliction of such a loss upon himself?—Brooklyn Eagle.

The custom of clerics of the Roman Catholic church not wearing a beard is supposed to date from the earliest history of the church. The early Christians, to manifest their dislike of pagan vanity, in the effeminacy of long and curling hair and carefully cultivated beards, shaved their faces and kept their hair cropped close. In the time of Tertullian this was a mark of the Christian. The early tonsure, known as St. Peter's of Rome, had the entire head closely shaven, leaving but a narrow rim. Custom nowadays takes but a small lock of hair from the head.

It is a singular fact that the most precious gems are composed of the most common substances. The diamond is the purest form of carbon and is identical in composition with ordinary charcoal without the impurities of the latter. The ruby, on the other hand, is nearly pure alumina, a substance found in profusion in every clay bank. The scientific name for crystalized alumina is corundum, and the gems comprehended under this designation are sometimes more valuable than diamonds of the same weight. The ruby, the sapphire, the oriental emerald, the oriental topaz, the oriental amethyst, the oriental aqua marine, the oriental chrysolite, the hyacinth and other precious stones are all alumina, the varieties of color being caused by inappreciable quantities of metallic oxides.

A sore throat or cough, if suffered to progress, often results in an incurable throat or lung trouble. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give instant relief.

A SUCCESSFUL FAILURE.

Irene Clay had a pardonable ambition. She was an heiress in possession of a comfortable fortune, but in spite of that she had a burning desire to make a mark in the world.

Her tests in literature extended to the reading of poems and novels and not to the writing of them.

Painting she detested on account of the odors of the paints; pictures she thought good enough to look at if painted by some one else.

"The stage is the thing."

That was the verdict of Irene Clay, reechoed by her friends.

She was familiar with the careers of Siddons and Kemble and our later Anderson and Mather.

Of course Miss Irene Clay fell into the hands of a professional elocutionist.

The "professor" was a very much retired actor with a deep bass voice, very pretentious and very pompous.

A surviving remnant of the antique school—a well-pleased relic of the elocutionary era, contemporaneous with Forrest, Eddy and Scott.

The "professor" was filled with conceit and traditions equally mixed. In his days he had been a mechanical actor, who acted by rule and was never influenced by enthusiasm. He spouted and gesticulated punctiliously.

One good trait—he never dodged, amended, cut or improved the author. The "lines" were as sacred to him as the book of koran to the Mohammedans.

For a twelvemonth Irene Clay mouthed and ranted as she was taught. Then the "professor" gushed. It was seldom that he gushed, but he did on that occasion.

"Miss Clay," he exclaimed, rapturously, "I pronounce you finished. You are now a mistress of your art—as fit to tread the boards as Rachel or Cushman, Siddons or Kemble."

The pupil was flattered, of course. Then the "professor" went on to say:

"It is now quite time that you made your debut and permitted the waiting millions an opportunity to see you in one of the divine William's choicest roles."

The "professor" continued his suggestions until they resulted in the following arrangements:

Miss Irene Clay, "a young lady of one of the best families—a society belle," as a newspaper paragraph had it, was to "debut at the Fashion theater at a special matinee, as Juliet in Shakespeare's grandest tragedy, 'Romeo and Juliet.'"

The article further said that the debutante was the pupil of Porter Proudfit, esq., the eminent actor. In fact there was full as much "Porter Proudfit, esq., the eminent actor," in all the preliminary press notices as there was "Miss Irene Clay, the lovely and talented society lady." Mr. Proudfit saw to it that it was so.

The leasing of the Fashion theater and the employment of a special company for the matinee debut involved no little expense, but Miss Clay did not mind that, neither did Mr. Proudfit. It was an excellent advertisement for his "Preparatory School of the Actor."

The preparations for the debut on the part of Miss Clay were onerous and tedious, but at last the all-important afternoon arrived as arranged by the almanac-makers.

Time never disappoints—there is no delay or postponement in his management.

Porter Proudfit had one favorite assertion, which he repeated over and over again to his pupil.

"My dear Miss Clay, you will grasp the dramatic diadem at a bound."

This he repeated over and over again until he believed it.

Perhaps "my dear" was just a little too warm an expression for the master to address to the miss. But just consider, he was old enough to be her grandfather.

The debut passed off as well as could be expected. Romeo was played of course, by that ancient stick, Porter Proudfit, and he didn't make love worth a cent. He was stiff, self-sufficient, stuffy and spoke as if his voice proceeded from the boots.

Juliet look like a fashion-plate, and must have felt like one. Poor thing! She got through with it and was glad. The words did not stick in her throat, although they tried to, and she spoke her lines just as the bard wrote them.

The support deserves a line—yes, in fact, a whole column. They were as chilling as a refrigerator and acted like marionettes manipulated by strings. How perfunctory and indifferent the players can be if they try! On this occasion they tried.

Irene Clay, in spite of the prophecy of her self-sufficient tutor, did not "grasp the diadem at a bound," and she had sense enough to know it.

Kind friends had applauded in all the right places, and she had been "called before the curtain," as laid down in the by-laws governing all regularly-conducted debuts.

The press had treated her kindly, or, rather, gingerly. They had not crushed her, but they sat down on Porter Proudfit and smothered him out flat.

They did not curse Juliet but they damned Romeo.

Romeo both cursed and damned the critics. "It was a conspiracy." He saw through it all.

"They seek to kill me!" exclaimed the dramatic tutor in a stage frenzy.

"And where would be the harm?" queried a waggish low comedian.

"The royal road to fortune now lays before you," said the professor to his pupil the day after her debut. "You have grasped the diadem at a bound—the prize is yours. Now all that you need is to organize a combination and go starring. Miss Irene Clay, the new Juliet, supported by Porter Proudfit, the eminent tragedian, and a powerful dramatic company."

The "professor" and his propositions were dismissed together.

Irene Clay had come to doubt her own dramatic capacities, and she resolved to consult the manager of the Fashion theater and ask his advice.

She found the manager of the Fashion affable and approachable and perfectly willing to give advice.

"I presume," he said, "that you are sincere when you say that you seek my advice?"

The new Juliet smiled and nodded.

The manager continued:

"Some ask advice that they may accept it when it coincides with their own unalterable views. Now, will you ever become an actress? Yes and no; that is an actress, yes, of mediocre ability—a star, a genius, no. You have not made an essay into stage life to work and to wait?"

The manager paused and waited for an answer.

The debutante shook her head.

"Ah, then your ambition was to reach the topmost round of the ladder at the first step?"

The embryo Juliet nodded.

"Then you are a failure," bluntly asserted the manager of the Fashion.

Miss Clay bit her lip and blushed deeply, seeing which he said apologetically:

"Excuse me, Miss Clay, if I speak directly and to the point. You can never never be a queen of tragedy. Your ambition is commendable, but it can not be fulfilled."

"Then I will give it up!" This she said with an effort, but firmly.

"I am glad to hear you say that," said the manager, "and you are a brave girl that can so easily set aside an infatuation, for such it is. A Siddons, a Kemble, a Cushman are born—they are geniuses. You might be drilled into a mechanical doll-like actress, but you would fall short of your own ideal."

Irene Clay's ambition met its fate then and there, but the acquaintance between the manager and the would-be actress ripened, until about a twelvemonth after he asked her to become his wife.

One day after they had been shortly wedded they were occupying the managerial box at the debut of a new and much-heralded Juliet.

"What do you think?" asked the manager, when the agony was over.

"I think," was the frank answer, "that some judicious friend should tell her, as you told me, of a mistaken vocation."

"And you have never regretted the shock I gave your ambition?" asked the husband.

"No," she replied, "It was an act of kindness when you shattered the castles in the air."

"We all build castles in the air," he returned.

"Ah," she said, "but we don't all live in them. I lived in mine until you taught me better."

The husband looked proudly at the Juliet of an earlier debut and asked:

"But you have never regretted your debut?"

"Not I," and then she laughed. "In all its results it was, after all, quite 'A Successful Failure.'"—Dramatic Times.

WHAT CONSTITUTES AN EDITION.

"What constitutes an edition" is a question that is frequently asked, and nobody seems qualified to answer it satisfactorily. The truth is that in ninety-nine out of a hundred cases later editions are merely servile reprints of the first edition, and there may have been 10,000 copies of a book made for the first edition, or there may have been only 50. The first edition of all works by Emile Zola number 20,000 copies each. In a Paris shop where only rare volumes are sold a first edition of "L'Assommoir" is held at 105 francs ($21), but this book came out at a time when Zola was comparatively unknown, and Zola editions were then limited to 1,000 copies each.

In fact, in France an edition is supposed to consist of 1,000 copies, but as Mr. Robert H. Sherard says in a recent letter, "publishers are not without guile, and, to whip up a sale, a book may be issued in editions of 50 copies, so that by the time 1,000 copies have been disposed of the book is in its twentieth edition."

Paul Bonnetain once made a great fuss about this swindling practice. "If," he wrote to his publisher, "my book has reached such an edition, bona fides, you are swindling me, for you have accounted to me for so many copies only. If the editions are imaginary, then the public is being swindled, inasmuch as you lead people to believe in a success and a demand which does not exist. In either case I object to your conduct."

In France the royalty paid to Daudet, Zola, De Mappassant, and a few others is about 30 per cent. on the retail price of each book sold. Many first-rate authors have to content themselves with 14 per cent., and a vast majority of writers do not receive more than 9 per cent., while beginners get a royalty of 7 per cent. only.

In America the royalty paid to authors is generally 10 per cent., although there are numerous instances where the royalty is very much larger.—Chicago News Record.

SPORTS AMONG ANIMALS.

In animals the faculty of amusement awakes very early. Our four-footed friends seem to be aware of this and make it a part of their parental duties to amuse their young. A ferret will play with her kittens, a cat with hers, a dog with her puppies. A mare will play with her foal, though the writer from whom we quote has never seen a cow try to amuse her calf, nor any birds their young. If their mothers do not amuse them, the young ones invent games of their own. A flock of ewes and lambs were once observed in adjoining fields, separated by a fence with several gaps into it. "Follow the leader" was the game most in favor with this flock, the biggest lamb leading around the field and then jumping the gap, with all the others following in single file; any lamb that took the leap unusually well would give two or three more enthusiastic jumps out of sheer exuberant happiness when it reached the other side.

Fawns play a sort of cross touch from one side to the other, the "touch" in each case being by the nose. Little pigs are also great at combined play, which generally takes the form of races. Emulation seems to form part of their amusement, for their races seem always to have the winning of the first place for their object, and are quite different from those combined rushes for food or causeless stampedes in which little pigs are wont to indulge. Racing is an amusement natural to some animals, and being soon taught by others, becomes one of their most exciting pastimes. Many horses, and all racing dogs, learn to be as keen at winning as schoolboys. Birds delight in the free and fanciful use of their wings. There is all the difference possible between the flight of birds on "business" and pleasure; and many kinds on fine days will soar to vast heights for pleasure alone.—Waverly Magazine.

AFTER WHALES IN THE ANTARCTIC.

An experimental voyage, which, though its main object is commercial, is not without interest of a more general kind, says Science, is about to be undertaken by Captain Gray, of Peterhead, the well-known Arctic whaler. Captain Gray is of opinion that the value of the Antarctic seas as a whaling ground has never been properly tested, and he has, according to the "Proceedings of the Royal Geographical society," succeeded in raising the capital necessary for prosecuting an experimental voyage with a couple of vessels of some 400 or 500 tons register, propelled by auxiliary engines of 70 or 80-horse power nominal.

The advertising of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always fully substantiated by indorsements which in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills.

Many years ago the pinnacle of an old church in Breog, in Cornwall, was demolished by a stroke of lightning, and one stone weighing 300 pounds, was hurled upward and in a southerly direction a distance of 100 yards, and a second was sent in a northerly direction 100 yards and a third 100 yards to the east.

Nancy Goes Another Mile in 2:05—Notes of Interest to the Sporting World.

Cleveland, Oct. 20.—Boston has now won two games. The second was as follows:

First inning—Childs rapped a beautiful single past third. Burkett put a two-bagger in the same place. Tebeau went out, Long to Tucker. McKean drove a beautiful line hit to center, sending two runs home. Virtue's hit was too hot for Nash, and McAleer died on a long fly to Duffy. O'Connor rapped the ball to Nash, forcing Virtue out at second. Long singled to left field, Burkett making a great attempt to get the ball. McCarthy forced Long out at second on a hit to Young. A fly to McAleer retired Duffy. McCarthy stole second base. Ganzel hit safely, scoring McCarthy. Nash fouled to Zimmer.

Second inning—Zimmer began with a long fly to Lowe. Young was fielded out on a hit to Tucker. Childs struck out. Lowe smashed a safe ground hit to left field. Tucker bunted the ball and was thrown out by Zimmer. Burkett misjudged Quinn's fly and he got two bases, Lowe scoring. Stivetts flied to O'Connor. Long flied out to McAleer.

Third inning—Burkett began with a base hit but foolishly tried to get second and was thrown out by Duffy. Tebeau flied out to Long and McKean to Duffy. McKean threw McCarthy out at first after a great stop, and Childs made a wonderful catch of Duffy's hit. Genzel got a scratch hit to the infield and Nash fouled out to Virtue.

Fourth inning—Virtue was thrown out, Nash to Tucker. McAleer died at first on Quinn's assist. O'Connor got a base hit, but Zimmer struck out. Lowe fouled out to Burkett. Tucker hit to McKean and was thrown out. Quinn fouled to Tebeau.

Fifth inning—Young died at first on a high fly to Long. Childs was thrown out by Long at first. Childs was retired on Long's assist. Burkett hit to Quinn but Tucker muffed the throw. Tebeau flied out to Long. Stivetts was retired by Childs' throw and Long fouled out to Virtue. McCarthy popped a safe fly to left. Duffy cracked out a hard line single and Ganzel's hit to McKean forced Duffy out at second.

Sixth inning—McKean got to first on Long's muff of a fly. He should have run faster and gone to second. Virtue struck out. McAleer popped up a high foul fly to Ganzel and O'Connor flied out to Lowe. A foul fly to Zimmer retired Nash. Lowe hit hard to McKean, who made a good pick up and throw. Tucker was fielded out by Virtue.

Seventh inning—Zimmer hit weakly to Nash and was thrown out. Strikes retired Young. Childs got a base on balls. Burkett struck out.—Quinn hit to Childs and was thrown out. Stivetts cracked a beautiful line hit to left for two bases. A pop fly to Childs retired Long. McCarthy's single to center retired Stivetts. Duffy flied to McAleer.

Eighth inning—Tebeau began with a pop fly to Stivetts. McKean cracked a single to left field. Virtue struck out. McKean was caught trying to steal second, although Snyder made a wrong decision.—Ganzel hit to Childs and was thrown out at first. McKean made a great stop of Nash's hit and threw him out. Lowe flied out to O'Connor.

Ninth inning—McAleer cracked a line hit to center field. O'Connor bunted, Stivetts to Tucker. Zimmer flied to McCarthy, and McAleer reached third on the put out. Then Davis was called in to bat. He made an awful crack at the ball and the force with which he hit it broke his bat squarely at the handle. Of course that destroyed the force of the hit and the ball bounded to Tucker, who crossed first base and the game was over. Score:

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Nancy Hanks trotted another wonderful mile here yesterday, though she was a second behind her performance at Terre Haute. The day was cooler than the earlier part of the week, and the track inclined to break away on the back stretch. The afternoon was well advanced when Doble started the queen and she went to the third quarter in the same time as she made at Terre Haute—1:32 1-2—but the effort told on her and she could only finish in 32 1-2 seconds, making the mile in 2:05. The fractions were 31 1-2, 30 3-4, 32 1-2 seconds, making the middle half in 1:01. A sensation had preceded this when Martha Wilkes was beaten for the second heat of the 2:19 stake after getting the first in 2:13. She was 5 to 1 favorite before the start and no one would bet against her after she led the party so easily in the first mile. The second heat was lively. Martha Wilkes was ahead to the homestretch, when Greenleaf came very fast, and the hitherto invincible mare from Boston gave it up, falling back to sixth place as Mamlin's Nightingale carried Greenleaf to the wire in 2:10 1-2, nearly three seconds below his former record. Doble got leave to give Martha Wilkes an easy heat as she was lame and unable to go another. Rule Greenleaf was in front all the way. Hamlin's Nightingale lapped on him till she made a break inside the distance. After that it took so long for Nancy Hanks to go her exhibition and the 2:25 trotters to finish a heat that Martha Wilkes gets a rest till to-day. The earlier part of the program was quickly disposed of, Noda and Muta Wilkes having little opposition in their stakes while Monogram won the dash for pacers as he pleased. Wardwell was the tip for the 2:25 trot at three to one, and showed his superiority over the field by closing a big gap and securing the only heat ever trotted in 2:16 1-2, a new mark for the pacer from Buffalo. There was some talk about Martha Wilkes being drugged, but that is improbable and the mare's downfall was due to lameness which she showed here when going slow. Besides the two classes undecided there are three stakes and the free-for-all pace to-day.

Waco, Tex., Oct. 20.—Tommie Warren, the feather-weight pugilist, charged with the killing of Clem Stovall, a saloon porter, was yesterday indicted by the grand judy for murder.

J. J. Dowling, a yearling owned by Dr. Newton, was sent a quarter at the fair grounds in 39 seconds, and repeated in 37 1-2 seconds. He is by Newton's Allie Wilkes, dam by Hale's Red Buck.

A. Barnard, of the American Sportsman, Cleveland, was here to-day in the interest of that journal.

A talked-of trotting race between Patsy Collins and Boston, six-furlong heats, will not likely come off, as Mr. John McFadden, owner of Patsy, proposes to transform him into a pacer. He has a record of 2:29 3-4 as a trotter.

Joe Wilkes (2:24 1-4 on a half-mile track) a 2-yearlold by Newton's Allie Wilkes, dam by Hale's Red Buck, owned by Buck & Clark, took third money in a pacing race at Washville yesterday. He was second in one heat in 2:20.

Dr. Parker's horses were admired very much at the races. Perline is certainly a beautiful and speedy animal.

OH MY, JACK!

Where Did You Get Such Minstrels?

The Performance at Wheeler's Was Lacking in Something or Other Last Evening—The Charity Ball To-Night.

Haverly's minstrels gave a very poor performance at Wheeler's last evening. It is a good thing for Haverly that he is only the director and not the owner, for the ownership of such an organization would "bust" him before the close of the season. It don't look as if Haverly was even the director. The singing was weak, and the principal soloists flattened like bullets against a stone wall. At times it was painful. There are a few good people with the company, including the inimitable Billy Rico and E. M. Hall, but a few good people can't give a performance, however hard they try. While this is in the nature of a roast, it is not intended to represent that the show was real bad, but rather that it was not real good.

The Charity Ball.

This evening Daniel Frohman's company appears at Wheeler's in the Charity Ball. The prestige won in former seasons by "The Wife" and other attractions, all of which, like "The Charity Ball," are under Mr. Frohman's management, are a guarantee that the high order of merit heretofore exhibited will be sustained in the present instance. The astute manager has recently returned from London, bringing with him several of the latest European successes, all of which will, at an early date, be given throughout the country, after production at the Lyceum Theater. "The Charity Ball" has enjoyed a long run in New York and has since pleased thousands of patrons out of the metropolis, and its popularity seems to have in no wise abated. The company has had the advantage of rehearsals at the Lyceum theater under the personal supervision of Mr. Frohman, and is said to be very strong and evenly balanced. In a play like "The Charity Ball," where no part is subservient to the rest and all are good, great care is necessary in the selection of the respective actors, and it is promised by the management that the company is even better than in past years.

To-morrow evening The Wife will be presented by the same company.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS.

He Thinks Judge Paxton Erred in His Rulings.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 20.—President Gompers, of the Federation of Labor, yesterday stopped over in Pittsburg, on his way to Chicago to investigate the Homestead strike. He severely criticised Chief Justice Paxton, saying:

"I regard Justice Paxton's charge to the grand jury as a travesty on judicial utterances, and I am far from being alone in my opinion, as some of the best and brightest legal minds in the east have pronounced emphatically against such a glaring misinterpretation of the law. His charge, I am free to say, was against the teachings of common law, which is the foundation for all legal practice, and his action generally in regard to these treason charges was without precedent."

THROWN OVER A CLIFF.

Monterey, Mex., Oct. 20.—An American tourist named S. F. Tarrant, of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed at Catorce, a mining town south of here, Tuesday. It is supposed that he was murdered, as his body was found at the foot of a 100-foot cliff horribly mutilated.

DETECTIVE SPORE

Listened to the Charges Made by Chief of Police Raitz,

Which Were Read Before the Police Board—Given Time to Answer—The Regular Grind.

The police board met in regular session last evening.

Health Officer Fisher read a report of the result of the trip of the committee to Texas for the purpose of inspecting garbage furnaces in operation, stating that a thorough test of the crematory resulted to the satisfaction of all, and illustrated the practical use of the invention. He read an extensive paper of the unsanitary and unsafe condition of old Metropolitan hotel, on the corner of Ottawa and Bridge streets, which has been presented in detail in the Bee on former occasions. In conclusion Dr. Fisher requested that action be taken to have the injunction restraining the tearing dawn of the building dissolved. City Solicitor Read was present and stated that he had taken the matter up.

Relative to the removal of Dr. Whiteford as district physician, the city solicitor gave it as his opinion that the office could not be declared vacant except by a two-thirds vote of the board. Unless the vote had been recorded, Dr. Whiteford was still in office.

Officer Dwyer was called before the board and reprimanded by the chair.

A petition was read by the clerk, recommending that Dr. McGinnis be appointed to fill the vacancy incurred by the dismissal of Dr. Whiteford. No vacancy was made and the petition was filed.

Chief Raitz preferred charges against Detective John McLaughlin, who is acting as special detective, receiving pay, but possessing police powers.

It was charged that he attempted to buy off certain attorneys who were prosecuting Casper & Brady, to recover money lost in their gambling house.

On motion of Mr. Stager the chargts will take their regular course.

Petition recommending the appointment of Dr. Reynolds as district physician of the Fifth ward was read and placed on file.

Detective Spore was then called before the board to hear the charges read, which had been submitted in writing by Chief Raitz.

The chief charges that on the night of September 5, Spore arrested Charles Kline, Edward Beudette, alias Burns, Baker, alias B. O., Henry Kibler, Chas. Sparthe, and Charles Lennell, crooks and gamblers; that he did not report the arrest to Lieutenant O'Dwyer, or the chief of police; that Frank O'Day and Sam Harmon asked that they be released and be allowed to leave the city, and that he did release them, not informing his superior of what he had done.

Also that he gambled and lost $40 in Casper & Grady's place.

That on about June 8, a party pawned a lady's gold watch with Rassin, a second-hand dealer, for $5; that Spore sent Nichter over and secured the watch. Rassin soon came after the property and was told that the watch had been stolen and that he (Spore) would hold it until an owner could be found. That no effort was made to find the owner, but instead he gave the watch to his wife and when Rassin called for his watch he fired him out of the room.

Detective Spore stated that he had not received a copy of the charges and asked for time to prepare his case. He requested that the clerk write to the police departments of Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and other places for letters written, tracing the owner of the watch. He stated that he was still in possession of the same and the owner could have it by proving the property.

Officer Oberski was charged with assaulting Frank Holowinski at the residence of one Knabsach. It seems that Oberski was off duty and stopped into the Knabsach domicile where he met Holowinski. A religious argument was entered upon and the officer was accused of being an A. P. A., Holowinski and Knabsach being Catholics. The testimony was conflicting, the officer testifying that Holowinski was drunk and vica versa. Knabsach testified in favor of the officer.

Mr. Doville did not think the officer was to blame and made a motion that the charges be dismissed, which was lost.

Mr. Stager moved that the president reprimand the officer, and it was so.

Officer Lang was tried on the charge of being off his beat.

Mr. Stager moved that the charges be sustained, which carried.

Mr. Warring then moved that the officer be suspended for two weeks, which prevailed.

Health officer Fisher reported the appointment of Charles Skeldon and a man named Daly as sanitary officers, which was approved by the board.

DODGING IT.

Davenport Does Not Care to Answer the Charges.

New York, Oct. 20.—The special congressional committee appointed to investigate the methods of Supervisor of Elections John I. Davenport, met in the federal building this morning. Sergeant-at-Arms Coakley reported that he had served Mr. Davenport with another subpoena on Saturday, and that Mr. Davenport had smiled and said he would not be in a position to appear before the committee for at least five weeks, as he was too busy. United States District Attorney Edward Mitchell appeared before the committee and gave testimony about the prosecution of violators of the election laws and all other matters. After this testimony the committee adjourned.

THE CONCORD.

Captain White in Much Demand in the South.

New York, Oct. 20.—A telegram to the Herald from its Washington correspondent says that George F. Underhill, formerly United States consul at Cuidad Bolivar, Venezuela, complains that while engaged in his pursuit of ship repairing he was arrested and roughly treated to prevent his lending aid to the revolutionists through the medium of his shop.

Capt. White, of the Concord, will investigate.

The state department is still without information whether the new government has been recognized.

GAS EXPLOSION.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 20.—A special from Anderson, Ind., says: A fatal natural gas explosion occurred here and the shock was felt all over town. Frank Platter, of the firm of Platter & Son, pump manufacturers, attempted to light a grate fire when accumulated gas caused a terrific wreck. The building fell in on the unfortunate man, and he was removed from the debris fatally injured.

MINISTER LINCOLN.

New York, Oct. 20.—Minister Robert T. Lincoln returned from Washington yesterday. He has been assigned by the chairman of the speaker's bureau to make three speeches in Indiana next week, the dates to be arranged by the Hoosier state committee. It is expected he will speak also in Illinois.

MUST BE TRIED.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 20.—The injunction sought by Judge C. R. Scott, of this district, to prevent the insanity commission from Burt county from examining him as an insane person, was to-day denied by three of his associate judges sitting upon the case in Tekamah, this state.

SILAS WIGGINS

Tells of His Efforts to Start the Republican Party in Kentucky.

Muscel Sholes Meeting House, Okve Co., Ky., Oct. 15, 1892.

To the Editor: Dear Sir—I take my pen in hand to write and tell you we ar all well and when this letter gets to you, hope you will be enjoin the same grate Blessin'.

I got your letter to-day, telling me about how you have been huntin' for somebody who was willin' to write to you and tell you what we ar doing in these parts.

I was tickled most to death when I red what you said my congressman said about me and told you when you was inquirin' around that I was the feller for the place, and that I was level-headed and the smartest and best educated man in these parts.

Now, sir, don't that show you that I know what I am about and that I understand my bizness, when that democrat congressman had to say that about me, who, am to-day, sir, the leadin' republican of my county.

Of course you ar surprized, but I ain't, for though he ain't been to congress but once I see good signs; he is larnin' his bizness.

Now, Mr. Editor, about my writin' letters for your paper, or to quote your letter, act as your correspondent, I want to tell you I have took a kind of likin' to you. I think you ar rite about printin' both sides of the grate political isues of this day, and it's a good idie to get them from the leadin' man on both sides; but Mr. Editor, you don't know and never will when I tell you all about it, what a man has to go through to be a clean republican in Kentucky, 'specially in my county, whare democrats ar' thick as the hair on a dog's back, and to be a leadin' republican I tell you it takes lots of grit and hard work; but I made up my mind two years ago when I read the heroick achevements of John Brown I would do somethin' for my suferin' country, and as I was raized among intelligent republicans down in Vermont, I felt qualified to do somethin. I had red a good deal about Kentucky and the democrats didn't let anybody els vote. I soon saw the light of intelegence was what they needed, so I jined the Salvation army and led them into Kentucky and we soon got away back into the middle of it and began to spar for an opening, but soon as we struck this county 2 of the army captins got hold of some moonshine whiskey and liked to a-died on may hands. It was a dirty democratic trick and when I found it out I was mad. I saw it was wastin' time prayin' and singing and distributin' hym books to such fellers so I jest swore on mine to bust the democrat party in Kentucky and give the book to one of the captins for a keepsake and sent him back to Ohio ware he would be safe, and after writin' my personal friend Joney Davenport, New York, whare I was and what I was going to do, I struck out and pulled up at Muscel Sholes, the worst democrat hole in the hul state, and went to work to start a republican party, and I'me a-doin' it, and I'me a-going to keep on doin' it, and I'me goin' to sucsed as sure as Jinney blows her horne, for Truth, Rite, Justice, intelect, entelegence, respectableti and education will sucsed.

Yours truly,
SILAS WIGGINS.

P. S.—I liked to forgot to tell you your proposion is excepted.

Condition of Ohio Crops.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The October crop report was issued by the department of agriculture yesterday. Of the seven great corn states Ohio stands highest in percentage of yield, being 80 against 70 in Kansas, which is the lowest. The following county reports are given:

Fayette—Has matured in fine condition; no frost to injure late planting, consequently all is out of danger and is of excellent quality. Where it had proper cultivation the yield is good.

Hamilton—Will not make over 65 per cent. of last year's crop. Much is blown down and will be badly damaged should there be a wet fall. No frost to date and the crop is generally out of danger.

Mahoning—Has improved beyond expectations, but much is late and can not fully mature.

Defiance—About 30 per cent. of the crop has been cut up; much will not be cut.

Hocking—Good.

Washington—Nearly all cut.

Wyandot—Weather very favorable for ripening the crop; no frost.

Montgomery—Well ripened up; no frost as yet.

Adams—In one portion of the county the prospect is good, while in about an equal area it is very poor. On the whole there will be about sufficient to meet the demand for feeding a fair number of hogs and wintering stock.

Holmes—About all in shock; is well ripened and sound; no frost.

Lawrence—All in shock; is sound and of good quality.

The Wheat Report

Shows the average yield in Ohio to have been a fraction above 13 bushels per acre. County reports are as follows:

Fayette—The grade varies in different localities as does the yield also. Some fields average as high as thirty bushels, others not more than ten or fifteen.

Hamilton—That which was threshed last has not yielded as well as the first threshing, and the quality is not so good, some being damaged by smut.

Clark—The average quality is poor and the yield was reduced by rust, smut, and scab.

Hocking—A good crop in yield and quality.

Holmes—Threshers' books show a yield of about ten bushels per acre.

Lake—Much is shrunken.

Medina—The poorest crop in years, both as to yield and quality.

Scioto—The largest crop ever known.

Tuscarawas—Damaged somewhat by wet weather while in stack.

Harrison—About an average crop and of fair quality.

Perry—Quality damaged by wet weather while in shock and stack.

Richland—The crop is difficult to estimate, as the yield varies greatly; ten bushels per acre is about a fair average.

Clermont—The best crop that has been grown within a decade.

Hardin—Damaged by brick rust; many acres would not pay for cutting.

The state agent for Ohio makes the following general report:

The yield of wheat for the state confirms the predictions of September 1 regarding quantity, but the average quality is worse than expected. In the southeastern portion, however, both yield and quality of wheat and oats are reported about the average. The condition of corn has improved very materially in the northern section of the state, due to the favorable weather for maturing. The potato prospect is not a promising one except in some favored localities. Tobacco is reported of good color and well housed and a better crop than expected.

BRYAN.

Notes of Interest From Williams County.

Bryan, O., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The Bryan Library association gave two performances here this week Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, presenting the well-known opera "Mikado" to good houses. The performances each evening were pronounced to be the best that has ever been before given by home or foreign talent.

A lengthy program has been arranged for Columbus day to take place in Bryan. Hon. C. A. Bowersox will deliver the address in the afternoon at the opera house.

There has been several deaths from diphtheria and still a number of cases at present in and about the vicinity of Bryan.

A SHOW DOWN.

Trying to Fill the Gulf Strikers' Places With New Men.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—Twenty-two telegraph operators have arrived here from Chicago en route to Kansas City in response to advertisements printed in the papers of that city, offering railroad operators permanent employment.

The Chicago operators were joined at the depot here by 23 St. Louis telegraphers and the entire party left for Kansas City this forenoon.

The agency that had the advertisement inserted is endeavoring to supply the vacancies caused by the strike on the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe branch, and as over 75 operators are said to have been sent south during the past two days, it is thought by to-morrow every vacancy occasioned by the strike will be filled.

It is apprehended in this city that this action means suspension of negotiations between the railroad company and the strikers. If this proves true it is predicted that Grand Chief Ramsey, of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, will call out the whole Santa Fe system rather than to let those on the Gulf branch of the road lose the fight.

DR. BRIGGS.

A Committee Appointed to Look After His Case.

The Reverend Gentleman's Defender Satisfied With the Situation.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Among the committees appointed by the Presbyterian synod this morning was the judicial committee, of which the following are the members:

Clergymen—L. Merrill Miller, Ogdensburg; James Gardner, Gloversville; J. E. Kittridge, Geneseo; C. H. Dibble, Perry; G. B. Spaulding, Syracuse; D. F. Bonner, Florida, Orange county; R. D. Sproull, Brooklyn; J. V. C. Nellis, Union, Broome county.

Elders—Stanton Caddy, Sing Sing; J. L. Stark, Camden; Horace Briggs, Buffalo; A. S. Long, Romulus; A. B. Smith, Poughkeepsie; L. T. Hamilton, Bridgeport; W. H. Hurlbert, Le Roy—all in New York state.

This is the committee which is to pass upon the complaint of Dr. Briggs and report thereon to the synod.

Dr. Miller, the chairman of the committee, said to a reporter of the United Press that he believed that the Dr. Briggs case was not properly before the synod, as it was still pending in the New York presbytery.

The committee, Dr. Miller explained, was a fair one and will look into the case fairly and with proper consideration. The complaint of Dr. Briggs will not come up in the synod until it has been passed upon by the judiciary committee, as it was, under the rule, referred to the stated clerk of the synod some time ago, and by him will be referred to the judiciary committee.

Rev. Dr. Brown, who defends Dr. Briggs, said after the meeting:

"I am satisfied with the way the thing has at present been disposed of, and I believe the committee to be an eminently fair one. They will consider it in all its phases."

SHIPPS AND SCAGGS.

They Have Armed Themselves for Blood.

Scotts Ridge, Ky., Promises To Be the Scene of Much Bloodshed.

Lebanon, Ky., Oct. 20.—The town of Scotts Ridge, 15 miles west of this city is in a perfect state of insurrection, and a desperate battle is looked for at any moment between the Shipps, on one side, and the Scaggs and Underwoods on the other.

Each side number about 25 heavily armed men, and the death of a dozen or more men at any time will be no surprise. Citizens have been warned and travel through that section has entirely ceased.

The trouble grew out of three men outraging Shake Shipp's wife several weeks ago. Buley Scaggs and a man named Underwood were arrested, charged with the crime, but were finally released.

The latter now threaten to wipe out the Shipps, which will prove a hazardous undertaking as the Shipps know no fear. Two years ago Bob Ship killed Bud Burress and badly wounded his brother Tom in a shooting scrape on the same grounds now occupied by the warring factions.

ASKED TO ANSWER.

Kerr Faces a Court in London on a Serious Charge.

London, Oct. 20.—Augustus T. Kerr, an accountant, who was arrested on a charge of forgery and embezzlement, preferred by his late employers, the Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust company, of Kansas City, was brought to London to-day, from Liverpool, to be arraigned in the extradition court at Bow street.

The International Telegraph company is informed by the Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust company, at their New York office that Kerr had been a bookkeeper for the company at Kansas City, and was not entrusted with cash or securities.

During the latter part of February, 1892, Kerr, it is alleged, stole outright certain negotiable securities, aggregating $14,305, with accompanying advices forwarded for collection from the London office of the company.

Kerr left the employ of the Jarvis-Conklin company in April, and shortly thereafter the theft was discovered from foreign advices received in regard to these securities.

The payment of the securities known to be still in Kerr's possession, amounting to $2,625, was stopped. His bond of $5,000 with the American Surety company was adjusted by them and the balance, amounting to $6,680, was charged to the profit and loss account of the Jarvis-Conklin company.

Kerr's whereabouts were ascertained through his attempted negotiation of the securities still in his possession, upon which payment had been stopped. It was found that he was in England, and steps were at once taken to secure his arrest.

The authorities of Missouri applied to the secretary of state at Washington and the requisite papers for the extradition of Kerr were forwarded to Great Britain, with the result indicated in the cable dispatch.

SUSPECTED OF MURDER.

A Man Charged With Killing His Wife.

London, Oct. 20.—A horrible affair has come to light at Oldham near Manchester. A man named Mellor lived in a house on the Hollins road at that place. His wife has been missing for some time, but apparently nothing had been seriously suspected.

Some neighbors to-day, paying an unexpected visit to Mellor's house, noticed that a hole had been dug in the kitchen, having every appearance of being intended as a grave for somebody. They informed the police, who at once proceeded to the house.

The police made a search, and soon found a body in the cellar. It was thought that of Mellor's wife. Her throat had been cut and the body was covered with stab wounds, showing that she had met a cruel death. The remains were in such a condition that it appeared the woman had been dead for weeks. A barrel of quick lime was found in another room, no doubt intended for use in the grave. Mellor has been put under arrest.

THOUGHT IT WAS A GARBAGE BOX.

A prominent married woman of Germantown has already utilized one of the ballot boxes which are being distributed to the judges of elections in a very peculiar way, but in a manner which was not contemplated by the Baker act. Paul Provost, of No. 16 Mill street, who is the judge of the Eleventh division of the Twenty-second ward, was instructed by his better half to order a garbage box on Friday and have the same sent home. During the time of his absence a galvanized, padlocked ballot box was delivered at the house. Mrs. Provost gazed suspiciously at the courious article, but imagined it was the garbage box desired by her, and at once had it removed to the rear of the dwelling, where, in a short time, it was well filled with refuse.

The husband's surprise may be imagined when he learned to what use the ballot box had been put by his beloved wife. Of course the box cannot be used for anything else now, so Mr. Provost has returned the keys to the commissioners, informing them that he is willing to pay for a new ballot box.

The most marvelous of clocks has been built by a Black Forest maker and sold for $4,000. Besides doing everything that most clocks do in the matter of time and calendar, it shows the time in Berlin, St. Petersburg, Madeira, Shanghai, Calcutta, Montreal, San Francisco, Melbourne and Greenwich. Every evening at 8 a young man invites the company to vespers in the electrically illuminated chapel wher a young woman plays the "Maiden's Prayer." On New Year's eve two trumpeters announce the flight of the old year and the advent of the new. In May a cuckoo comes out; in June a quail; in October a pheasant appears, to be shot down by a typical British sportsman who proceeds to bag his game. At daybreak the sun rises and some bells play a German air entitled "Phoebus Awakes." On the night of the full moon they play another German air entitled "Sweet and Tranquil Luna." There are other features too numerous to mention.

The sight of a man putting on his hat is not usually impressive, but to see an East Indian don his turban before it is rolled is matter for interest and astonishment to one unacquainted with Oriental life. There is at least one man in this town who knows how to roll a turban. He takes it from its hiding place in a bureau drawer, a long and wide band of white and pliant material, delicately woven. One end he claps on top of his head and then by a series of rapid, graceful motions that defy analysis by any save an expert he rolls the cloth into the light and graceful turban. It is all done in a very few seconds, and the final touch tucks the loose end in such fashion between the folds that the turban does not fall to pieces when the wearer moves.

Until recently a medicine was prepared from the common crawfish. In the stomach of this creature there are almost always found small calcareous concretions, from the size of a pin's head to the size of a pea. The little stony ball is composed of carbonate and phosphate of lime, and was formerly powdered and used in doses of three or four grains to correct acidity of the stomach. Prepared chalk has now taken the place of the "crab's-eyes," as these concretions were called, but occasionally persons are found who consider them more efficacious than the substitute.

State bank currency was redeemable in gold and silver coin. A failure to redeem any of its notes in gold or silver, when presented at its counter, forfeited the charter of the state bank of Indiana, but it was never forfeited.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

MANY TIMES DISAPPOINTED!

By misleading advertisements written in the choicest English and so put that one would think the writers the only men on earth who knew anything about ready-made clothes, and yet you go to these stores and try on their ready-made garments. Do they fit you? Are the collars right? You that have tried it know. Comment is unnecessary.
